TUCKER BEGS FOR CHANCE TO TESTIFY IN HIS OWN BEHALF

IF INDICTED BY THE GRAND JURY

"I Am Not Afraid," He Declares, "to Go on the Stand. Cross-Examination Cannot Break Down My Story"---New Witness May Aid Tucker's Defence of an Alibi.

CHARLES L. TUCKER HAS IMPLORED HIS COUNSEL FOR PERMISSION TO TAKE THE STAND IN HIS OWN BEHALF IN THE TRIAL SCHEDULED FOR NEXT SEPTEMBER IN EVENT OF HIS BEING INDICTED BY THE PRESENT SESSION OF THE MIDDLESEX GRAND JURY.

TUCKER DOES NOT FEAR ANY CROSS-EXAMINATION DISTRICT ATTORNEY SANDERSON CAN SUBJECT HIM TO. HE IS EAGER TO TELL THE JURY HIS FULL STORY AND TO TAKE THE CONSEQUENCES OF THE FEARFUL ORDEAL HE WILL BE FORCED TO UNDERGO WHEN HE PASSES INTO THE HANDS OF THE GOVERNMENT CROSS-EXAMINING EXPERTS.

Attorney James H. Vahey has not yet given his consent. He has thus far put Tucker off with noncommittal promises, but the accused man is insistent that he be placed on the stand.

When asked by the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day whether or not he would allow Tucker to testify in his own behalf, Mr. Vahey declined to give a decisive answer. "That is a matter I cannot at this time discuss in the newspapers," he said. Beyond that he declined to express an opinion.

WANTS TO TELL WHOLE STORY.

In a long conference at the East Cambridge jail to-day with Attorney Vahey, Tucker explained:

"All I want is an opportunity to go on the stand and tell my whole story. I am not afraid to face any cross-examination that the District-Attorney or anyone else can subject me to. I am positive I can convince the jury of my innocence. Will you let me take the stand, Mr. Vahey?"

The question was no surprise to Attorney Vahey. It had been asked him in the same eager way by Tucker many times before.

"Possibly we may allow you to testify, Charles," said the lawyer. "That will depend on circumstances."

"I am convinced that any circumstance could arise which should preclude Mr. Mfrom the privilege of testifying in his own behalf." In a recent chat with his parents and his brother Walter he expressed the fervent hope that he would be placed on the stand.

"All I want is the chance to tell everything I did on the day of the murder," he said. "I can convince the jury that I am innocent if they will only let me get on the stand and talk all I want to."

In the days he has passed in jail awaiting action by the Grand Jury Tucker has carefully pondered the problems of his own case. The idea that he should be permitted to take the stand in his own behalf has grown steadily upon him.

"NOT AFRAID OF OUTCOME."

"Charles is not afraid of the outcome," said Walter F. Tucker, the brother of the accused man. "I have had many long talks with him. He tells a story which I believe to be unassailable. He accounts for every minute of his time, from the moment he left the house until he returned again."

That Charles L. Tucker fully realizes the fierce ordeal to which he would be subjected on the witness stand there can be no doubt. He realizes that it is not a departure to venture upon lightly. He does not appreciate the armour of the district attorney as a cross-examiner. When the danger is pointed out to him, he exclaims:

"I have told the truth, and I shall tell the truth and nothing but the truth. I am innocent. How could I hurt my case by testifying in my own behalf?"

Tucker believes he can satisfactorily explain to the jury the significance of any evidence brought against him. He is fully prepared to testify concerning the broken knife blade found in his possession and the knife sheath found in the delivery wagon by Arthur Woodward.

The explanation given by Walter F. Tucker on these points to the BOSTON AMERICAN in an exclusive interview this morning follows:

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW TO THE AMERICAN.

"Charles tried to pawn the knife about three weeks previous to the day of the murder. He carried this knife and refused to pawn it down in Boston and tried to raise money on them. The dealer offered a satisfactory advance on the revolver and Charles left it with him, but the amount offered for the knife was so trifling that Charles refused to let the man have it and put it back in his pocket.

"When he carried the knife to the pawnshop it was forced to its sheath. When showing the knife to the dealer, the blade was, of course, exposed. After handing down the man's offer Charles put the naked knife in his inside coat pocket and the sheath in another pocket.

"There was nothing out of the way in his doing that. He found that when the sheath was on the blade it was more likely to work out of his pocket. The sheath, of course, was a little longer than the knife blade, and, when sheathed, the knife was more liable to drop out, as the pocket was

POUNDING PORT ARTHUR AGAIN!

Reports From Several Sources Indicate That Japs Are Attacking Fortress by Both Land and Sea.

LONDON, June 7.—To-day's dispatches from the Far East indicate another fierce attack by the Japanese on Port Arthur.

Cables from Chefoo and neighboring places say that a combined attack on the stronghold was made last night by the Mikado's land and naval forces, and that in the last event the Russian squadron at Port Arthur went out to meet Togo's fleet in the open, with results yet unknown.

The first report of the renewal of the fighting against the Russian fortress was brought by a junk to Chefoo. Other reports have since

FONDNESS FOR WOMEN LED A CLERK TO ROB

BLONDE COVERED HIS TRAIL

Lured to his ruin by love of feminine society, Walter C. Goddard, thirty, a trusted bookkeeper of Andrew J. Lloyd & Co., No. 315 Washington street, has fled from this city with an embezzlement charge preferred by his late employers hanging over his head.

According to members of the firm, Goddard has been missing since last Friday, on that day a shortage in his accounts was discovered. Exactly how much is not known, although it amounts to several hundreds dollars, probably nearly $1,000.

His alleged methods were simple. Entrusted with depositing the funds of the concern daily in two local banks, Goddard is said to have held out some.

The peculations, according to the firm, began about April 1, and were continued up to last week. When an examination of the passbook was made on Friday, after he had telephoned in that he was ill and would remain home that day, the shortages were discovered.

The Dashing Blonde.

Goddard had lived from May 1 to last Friday at 506 Massachusetts avenue, going there from the Beacon Chambers.

Mrs. Reed, the landlady at the Massachusetts avenue house, states that Goddard has been very nervous for some time. She says that at her house Goddard had been visited by several women at various times.

One of these, a dashing blonde from Dorchester, used to come over and take Goddard out carriage riding. Others would also call, and on Friday one of these called after a photograph of hers that Goddard had in his room, and secured it.

Before his departure Goddard carefully secreted all photographs of himself or others that might be used as evidence, and on Sunday last his blonde friend from Dorchester, whose name is carefully guarded, drove over and told Mrs. Reed that Goddard wanted his effects. She carried most of these away with her, saying Goddard was going to take a trip out of town. All that was left behind was a trunk containing a few old clothes and a piano, leased by Goddard.

Not a Dissipated Man.

Goddard had been employed at Lloyd's for six or seven years. He is a native of St. John, N. B., where his family live. So far as is known he has no relatives hereabouts.

According to acquaintances Goddard has never dissipated. He was a very plain dresser and was regarded as a young man of good habits.

For some time he has been keeping company with no less than three young women, one of whom he had been engaged to marry.

WAR CORRESPONDENT IS SHOT BY CHINESE

LONDON TELEGRAPHMAN, AMERICAN, KILLED BY CHINESE TROOPS.

LONDON, June 7.—A private dispatch just received at New-Chwang from Shaikaikwan says that Lewis Etzel, correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, and Ernest Brindle, of the London Daily Mail, were fired upon by Chinese soldiers while in a junk between Shwantaitze and Erdiko. Etzel was killed, but Brindle is believed to be safe. They left here on June 3 to investigate the movements of some bandits. Etzel was a native of Butler, Penn., and his father resides now either at Denver, Col., or San Diego, Cal.

LOCAL OPTION FOR SUNDAY OBSERVANCE

PRESENT LAW TO STAND WITH CLAUSE GRANTING ENFORCEMENT TO COMMUNITIES.

After its third meeting lasting two hours and a half, the Committee on Judiciary voted to report a bill to the Senate this afternoon which will permit the giving of Sunday performances and concerts.

The report asks that the present law be allowed to stand with a clause added providing that special license for Sunday performances permissible under the law may be issued by local authorities.

As the present law stands it is uncertain whether or not a special license is required for the giving of Sunday performances, proceeds of which, or portion thereof, are to be devoted to religious or charitable purposes. The amendment will clearly specify that a special license will be necessary.

Senators Dana and Clark and Representatives Taft and Gove will dissent from the report. They claim that no performances for any purpose, charitable or otherwise, should be allowed.

Senator Peters will present the bill.

FOUR CLING TO BOAT 3 HOURS

Special to the Boston American.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 7.—Wrecked in a dory on Long Island Sound last night near the local harbor, Burton Irving Driskin, the Yale freshman pitcher, and three companions were tumbled overboard, and clung for three hours to the overturned boat. Their cries were heard by residents of West Haven, who rescued them.

Driskin lives in Boston.

WILLIAMS WILL PRESIDE.

DALLAS, Tex., June 7.—Friends of Senator Joseph Bailey, of Texas, state that he has been selected by the Democratic National committee to act as temporary chairman of the St. Louis Convention, and Congressman Williams, of Mississippi, will be permanent chairman.

MARK TWAIN NEVER LEAVES WIFE'S BIER

KNEELS CONTINUALLY BESIDE HER BODY, AND SPEAKS TO NO ONE.

FLORENCE, Italy, June 7.—The body of Mrs. Samuel L. Clemens has been embalmed and will be sent to the United States. Mr. Clemens kneels continually by the coffin. He speaks to no one.

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 7.—Members of Mrs. Clemens' family here say the body will probably be brought to this city for interment.

TROOPS WILL SHOOT TO KILL IN MINING REGION

GOV. PEABODY IS EXPECTED TO DECLARE MARTIAL LAW AT ONCE.

VICTOR, Colo., June 7.—At 9 o'clock this morning the mining district, where troops and soldiers had bloody encounters during the night, had almost resumed its normal condition of quietude. Suspension of City Marshal O'Connell yesterday afternoon, the forcing of Sheriff H. M. Robertson and Coroner James Doran to resign, the placing of the city under military control, the wholesale arrests of unionists and announcement by the authorities that no quarter or mercy will be shown any one evidencing disposition to make trouble, served wonderfully to bring order out of the crime and chaos which reigned yesterday and last night.

The authorities now have the situation well in hand and there are sufficient troops and deputies on the ground to maintain order.

Sheriff Bell, who succeeded Robertson yesterday afternoon, announced this morning that all citizens must go unarmed and anyone who disobeyed this order would be promptly arrested by the militia. Resistance to his orders means shooting, and no interference of any kind will be tolerated.

A fell toll of casualties yesterday, beginning with the dynamite outrage at the Independence depot and ending with the assault upon the union miners' hall by the militia numbers 28, including fifteen killed and fourteen wounded.

Of the dead, thirteen lost their lives as a result of the explosion at the depot. The other two were killed during the first riot in Main street. Six non-unionists were wounded by the explosion, and eight persons were wounded during the riots.

The vigilance committee organized yesterday is still at work in the small towns in the district arresting unionists and bringing them to Victor, where they are placed under heavy military guard. They will probably be deported from the county.

Upon the return of Governor Peabody from St. Louis to-night or to-morrow morning it is believed martial law will be declared in force indefinitely. A revised list of dead and injured at Independence follows:

Dead: L. Skanklin, Charles Barber, Henry A. Hagg, Gus Augustus, Arthur Dallmore, T. H. Johnson, Alex McLean, John Kelso, James Harrison, W. S. Delno, Ed Dunn, Herbert Metcy, Robert Sheldon, Rocky McGee, John Davis.

Injured: C. C. Allen, Phil Chandler, John Pollice, J. A. Brook, Ed Holland, Dan McCarvey.

J. A. Reed, Joe Findley, Fire Chief Murphy, Peter Christian, Fred Studebaugh, Peter Calderwood, Arthur Parker, James McKelvey, all union miners.

CONGRESSMAN HOGG MARKED FOR BULL PEN

vary shallow. When the naked blade was exposed, the edges and point of the knife resisted being dislodged from the pocket. Any one who has ever tried to carry a knife of that description in a shallow pocket knows that this is true.

CUT HAND REMOVING BLADE.

"When Charles returned home from the powwhrker's he took the knife out of his pocket. As I said, it was in an inside coat pocket, and in removing it he forgot about the naked blade and cut his hand.

"The cut wasn't serious enough to cause any but the slightest inconvenience. He paid not attention to It. He didn't even take the trouble to wipe the few drops of blood from the knife. He threw it into a lower bureau drawer in his room, and there it remained for three weeks undisturbed.

"He never gave a thought about the knife sheath, which was in another pocket. On the day Mabel Page was murdered Charles happened to wear the overcoat he had worn on the day he visited the pawn shop, some three weeks before. So far as I know he had never worn the coat at any time between the two dates mentioned.

"Everybody knows how he went to ride that afternoon and how the knife sheath was found in the carriage by Arthur Seward. Charles did not deny it was his sheath. His explanation of its presence in his pocket is exactly as I have given it.

"Mabel Page was murdered on a Thursday, March 31. Charles was not arrested until a week from the following Monday, April 9. During all that interval the knife lay in the bureau drawer where he had thrown it three weeks before.

Didn't Destroy the Knife.

"A few hours before he was arrested he destroyed the knife blade. He is ready to be questioned by the police. He didn't have a great deal of faith in their integrity and thought they might search the house and find the blade and use it as evidence against him. Yet even then he merely placed the pieces of blade in his overcoat pocket. That is not the act or action to expect in a man guilty of murder. Had he been guilty he would have at once destroyed the instrument used in committing the crime. He was a little frightened and simply did what almost any one would have done under the circumstances."

DOYLE MAY ESTABLISH ALIBI.

The alibi of Tucker may be established by Dennis Doyle, a witness subpoenaed by the prosecution, but who is expected by Tucker's lawyers to prove one of the strongest witnesses for the defence. Doyle is sixteen years old and lives in East Newton street, Weston, near Cutler's Corner.

Through him Tucker's lawyers expect to prove that Tucker could not possibly have been at the Page home at the time of the murder. Young Doyle and his brother, George, were playing in a field on East Newton street, several hundred yards from the home of Miss Sadie Cutler, and Tucker passed them on the road to Riverside. It was then, Doyle is positive, between 12:15 and 12:30 o'clock. It would take at least fifteen minutes to walk from the Page house to that spot.

POLICE KEPT FACTS QUIET.

The State police learned this, but kept quiet what Doyle told them, but a week ago to-day the district attorney had him visit the East Cambridge jail to identify Tucker. The latter was placed in line with several other prisoners, but Doyle had no difficulty in pointing him out. He said afterward that the Cambridge prisoner was in jail-mate him look shorter, and that the absence of any overcoat made the man appearance some, but he is willing to swear that Tucker is the man he saw at the time mentioned.

CAN'T REMEMBER THE DAY.

An effort was made to have Patrick J. Connolly, conchman for Judge Bennett, recall the fact that Tucker passed him at the corner as Connolly was passing out of the yard. Connolly could not recall it, remembers seeing Tucker, but he cannot even remember the day, or anything at all of the time.

Instead of seeing a stranger passing, and then being asked to identify him as Tucker, he says that when he saw Tucker walking along the street he saw an old acquaintance. He has lived in the neighborhood of his mother is Mrs. Alice Doyle, a widow. Five of his brothers, Doyle says, work for Tucker in Thorp & Martin's store on Milk street, Boston. This brother visited Tucker at the jail yesterday, but only had a chance to shake hands with him. It is he who was questioned about the second alibi found in Tucker's possession. The third brother, George, did not pay so much attention to the man who passed the two, as they were playing ball when he passed, but swear that Tucker was the man.

Doyle was summoned before the grand jury yesterday. It is presumed he gave the same testimony he had already told the State police. It is known that since last Tuesday counsel for defence have felt much relieved, and that they are more confident than ever that they will prove an alibi for their client.

EVIDENCE AGAINST TUCKER.

A piece of paper bagging, a piece of cloth such as is used for cleaning rowlocks, and a third article, the nature of which has not yet been disclosed, all found in the page house after the murder of Mabel Page, and all directly traceable to Tucker, are in possession of the police, and will be used as evidence when the case comes to trial.

It is not regarded as at all probable that the Grand Jury, which yesterday heard evidence against Tucker, will refuse to indict. It is known, in fact, in official circles, that the jury has found a true bill against Tucker, which will be reported on Saturday. This is not a setback to Tucker's lawyers, as they have prepared for a trial, on the theory that the Grand Jury would indict.

GUARDED WITH SECRECY.

The new evidence has been guarded with great secrecy by the police and District Attorney Sanderson's office. It has become known, however, that Harold Page, after the murder of his sister, found in his home a piece of brown paper bag, on which was printed the name of a Chatham town business man. Harold Page paid little attention to the matter, but in the course of the business man was discussed, when it was discovered that the article had a definite connection with Tucker.

The piece of cloth was picked up by Mrs. Freeman, a sister of Mabel Page, during a visit to the house. Examination shows that the piece of cloth is identical in texture with a cloth used at boathouses in cleaning rowlocks.

ROBBERY AS A MOTIVE.

These finds and a third, the nature of which is yet a secret, were placed in the hands of General Whitney of the State Police, and are regarded by him as of the greatest importance in establishing the fact that Tucker was at the Page house on the day Mabel was killed.

The purpose of Tucker's visit, the prosecution will seek to establish, is robbery. Mabel Page kept her money in two places — a drawer in a small sitting room in the table on the first floor, and a wallet in a desk in her mother's room, upstairs. This money from the sitting room was stolen. On the morning of the murder Mabel Page had given to Amy Roberts, the domestic, a $2 bill to make some purchases. Among the bills remaining in the drawer, which the maid saw, was one $10 bill.

R. I. LIQUOR DEALERS FIGHT HIGH LICENSE

PAWTUCKET, R. I., June 7.—The Liquor dealers of Rhode Island have organized for mutual protection. They have become affiliated with the regular State organization. "There are no politics in this movement," said President Taft, of Providence Union. "Of course, the dealers are opposed to the proposed high license act, just the same as other business interests are against measures which affect their welfare.

been received that tend to lend confirmation to the story. Steamers passing Liao-Tshan promontory heard heavy firing between 11 p. m. and 2 a. m., while reports from Teng-Chan are to the same effect. The attack on sea, it is said, was preceded by a fierce assault on the outer defences by General Oku's army.

Desperate Relief Plans.

That the Russians realize the serious plight of their Eastern Gibraltar is borne out by the dispatch from Tokio, which says that the Japs have intercepted a wireless dispatch that indicates that the beleaguered garrison is to act simultaneously with General Kuropatkin's troops in a desperate effort to raise the siege.

The Russians hope by a front and rear movement not only to demoralize the Japanese, but to annihilate the entire force.

"The possession of this information, it is said, is responsible for the recent re-enforcements landed on Liao-Tung peninsula. It is further stated that the Japs intend by the end of the week to have at least 100,000 men guarding their rear on the peninsula.

Czar Says Port Must Hold.

A dispatch from Cracow, Poland, says that the Socialist papers print the text of what is claimed to be a telegram sent by the Czar to General Kuropatkin, in which he says:

"The honor of Russian arms demands that Port Arthur be held. In order to prevent delay, to concentrate all efforts to repel the enemy's attacks on this stronghold and make it possible for the garrison there to maintain its position victoriously."

A Wei Hai Wei dispatch to the London Express declares that non-combatants at Port Arthur have been deprived of their civil right and have been forced to perform menial work. There are no fresh vegetables, salt is scarce, selling at ten shillings an ounce, and biscuits, of which there is the largest supply, are rationed out ten ounces daily.

Will Never Surrender.

General Stoessel, it is said, addresses his troops several times weekly, and his words are greeted with shouts from the men that they will never surrender.

The non-excavation of the port is regarded as a tactical blunder of the gravest nature by the army staffs.

FIND BODY OF WIFE; HE FLEES

By Boston American Leased Wire.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., June 7.—Joseph W. Van Note, fisherman, took his young wife, Julia, out in his naptha launch Sunday afternoon for a pleasure trip. He returned Sunday night without her and reported that she had fallen overboard and been drowned.

Now the body of Mrs. Van Note has been found at Sandy Hook, with the wrist and saw broken, a big gash in the forehead, and several cuts on the throat and body. Van Note has disappeared, leaving no trace behind him.

Mrs. Van Note was twenty-nine years old.

STOLE HER FACE; HELD IN $500

Asbury R. Littlehale, the Wakefield youth who was arrested for breaking into the home of a girl he admired and stealing her photograph, was bound over in $500 for the Grand Jury by Judge Bruce in Malden District Court to-day.

Miss Leah Roseloe, of 24 Richardson street, Wakefield, whose pretty photograph was so solemnly sought by Littlehale, said after the hearing:

"I am sorry he must go to the higher court. I would have been satisfied if he had been let off with a small fine. But it doesn't make any difference now."

On the stand to-day Chief Urquhart of Wakefield said Littlehale had confessed he was the burglar. Littlehale pleaded not guilty, but was bound over

MACKEREL HAUL TOTALS 50,000

Record-breaking catches of mackerel were brought in at 7 wharf this morning. The total was 50,000 mackerel, the largest since the season opened.

There were three catches of mackerel. The Lena and Melissa, Captain McFarland, brought in 10,000; the Rosa Hall, Captain Frank Hall, 16,000, and the N. Y. Nelson, Captain Nelson, 18,000. The fish brought nine cents apiece.

On account of the scarcity of ground fish the prices soared to $3, against $2.50 per quintal yesterday.

Four schooners arrived with ground fish, bringing a total of 52,000 pounds of halibut, 60,000 pounds of cod, and 91,000 pounds of hake and cusk.

UNION TRUST GOT NO BONUS FROM MEYER

—W. E. BARRETT.

Admits, However, That One Percent, a Month Might Have Been Charged.

AFFAIRS AIRED IN COURT

William E. Barrett, president of the defunct Union Trust Company, testified on the witness stand to-day that one per cent. a month might have been charged on notes of Andrew A. Meyer, held by the Union Trust Company.

He denied receiving a bonus of $1,000 from Mr. Meyer for making him a loan of $5,500.

"I never received such a bonus," said Mr. Barrett. "Most of the notes were at the rate of six per cent a year, charged up monthly. These might have been some notes on which the rate was one per cent a month.

"I cannot remember the dates and amounts, except by references to the books."

Mr. Barrett is a former Congressman and former speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. He is editor of the Advertiser Record. The Union Trust Company, of which he was president, was recently put in hands of receiver by order of the Supreme Bank Commissioner.

Andrew A. Meyer says he conveyed to the Union Trust Company, amongst all his interest in land at Hough's Neck, South Abington, worth $40,000, borrowing money on first mortgages and other collateral. He seeks return of his property or of his collateral.

The case came before Judge Barker in the Supreme Judicial Court this morning. It is the first sitting of any on the Union Trust Company cases since the last receivership.

3 DAYS AT SEA WITHOUT FOOD

RESCUED, IS LOST AGAIN

WOODS HOLL, June 7.—Rowing about in an open dory for three days and nights without food or water in a vain attempt to reach his schooner, Frank Cabe, a fisherman, finally reached here this morning in an exhausted condition.

He is one of the crew of the fishing schooner Bessie, Captain Marshall, of Provincetown, and was overhauling his trawls Sunday morning, forty miles to the eastward of Sankaty Head, Nantucket Island, when a dense fog shut down on him and all boatings of the schooner were lost.

A fierce northeast gale sprang up, and with his dory heavily loaded with fish and gear he almost lifted the boat from the several times. Fighting for his very life for one of the wildest storms on the North Atlantic coast, he kept bailing and rowing toward where he though land or schooner might by, but after two days he lost hope and drifted at the mercy of the wind and waves. He was finally picked up by a three-masted schooner. When off Woods Holl he jumped and started to swim for shore. A second fog shut down on him and he rowed all night trying to find land. This morning he made the harbor.

FOUR OF NINE LOST FISHERMEN PICKED UP

THE OTHER FIVE HAVE BEEN GIVEN UP AS LOST BY THEIR COMRADES.

Four of the nine fishermen, lost in a fog off Chatham, Cape Cod, in single dories, from the schooner Ida M. Silva, on Sunday afternoon, were brought in to-day on the schooner Sea Fox. The rescued men were:

Manuel Silva, Tony Silva, Manuel Jarvis and Manuel Jayson. One man, Joseph Rose, of Gloucester, a Portuguese, has been given up for lost, as he had no sail to his boat and it is not believed that his little craft could have withstood the wind and sea since.

The other missing fishermen are Joseph H. Gray, East Gloucester; Alexander Donahue, Cape Breton; Everett Beatty, of Portland, and John Brigham, of Provincetown.

Silva Brought Into Harbor.

The schooner Silva was brought into harbor to-day by Captain Joseph Silva and the crew, Joseph Gray. When she arrived the nine fishermen had not been seen since Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when they were lost in fog fifteen miles east of Chatham.

They were suddenly enveloped in a fog, which swept in from the ocean, and in a few minutes were completely swallowed up. There was some sea running at the time, and the Silva laid to for twenty-four hours. The fog lifted the next morning, but there was no trace of the men. The Silva had blown her fog horn during the night, at frequent intervals, to let the fishermen know her location, and for seven hours after the fog lifted she cruised about in the vicinity, looking for the men.

Weather Grew Threatening.

The weather grew threatening, however, and with no one on board except Captain Silva and the cook there was danger that the vessel would be lost. It was decided to make for harbor and trust to the luck of the fishermen in getting picked up or finding their way in the dories to land.

Didn't Dare Remain Longer.

The schooner had 12,000 pounds of cod and haddock on board when the men disappeared in the fog. Captain Silva, who, with M. J. Abearn, of Boston, owns the schooner, said to-day that he and the cook had a great deal of trouble in bringing the schooner to port, and that they did not dare remain on any longer, for fear of losing her. He expressed the hope that the nine men would be safe by either falling boats or made their way to Chatham or some nearby point on Cape Cod.

NO TRACE OF SLUGGER WHO ESCAPED BY RUSE

LITTLE HOPES OF RECAPTURING ITALIAN WHO CHANGED PLACES WITH DRUNK.

The police have found no trace of Dominico Lamata, the Belmont slugger, who, after having been held in $1,500 bail for assaulting Miss Rebecca Livingstone, escaped from the Cambridge authorities by posing as another prisoner and paying $1 fine which had been imposed on the man he professed to be.

Little hope is held out that Lamata will ever be recaptured, as the police have scoured all the Italian districts in Boston and surrounding towns without having found anything of him. There is nothing to connect the escaped man from any other Italian so far as appearances go, the police say, except that he had a black eye.

Sheriff Fahlbaum from whom the man escaped looked at the matter rather complacently.

Won't Cry Over Spilt Milk.

"It is something," he said, "that would happen more than once in a hundred years. I regret it, but there is no use crying over spilt milk. I proposed to make every effort in my power to recapture the fellow, and all I can be expected to do."

Lamata did not do it intentionally, I believe. It happened that here was a policeman who had electricity in his hands, and he took advantage unconsciously. Neither he nor the Italian understood what was being said when they were spoken to at the jail. Lamata simply answered to the name that was called.

He was searched, as is usually done, and the officers found he had $6. On reaching the writ it was seen that the man Lamata was unconscionably impecunious was charged with a trivial offence and his fine was a dollar. When asked why he did not pay it, Lamata did not understand what was said. The interpreter explained, and the Italian was set free.

The Frenchman was scratched and bruised about the face, and he gave the appearance of having been in a serious rage and of having been handled roughly. Lamata had but a slight disorder to show under one eye. That seemed to indicate that the Frenchman was the man held for attacking the woman.

Doesn't Blame Sheriff Cushing.

"Deputy Sheriff Cushing is one of my best men, and I have no blame for him. He is always careful, and of course he feels this keenly. However, I believe it can be a short time before we shall have Lamata in custody again, for I think he really believed his case has been disposed of."

The police who have been scouring the city without any result do not hold the same optimistic views as the Sheriff. In fact, after a squad had looked carefully through the North End and another squad had searched the West End they came to the conclusion that the escaper prisoner had fled from Boston and the chances of ever seeing him again were very slender.

Manner of Escape Easy.

The manner in which the men escaped shows how easily such a thing could be accomplished by a more important prisoner than Lamata who wanted to get away.

When the prisoners reached the House of Correction, Deputy Sheriff Cushing began calling out the names of those under sentence had. Lamata responded to the name Joseph Lamata. Neither Deputy Cushing nor understand English very well, and the officer, noticing that Lamata had no money, and supposing him to be Frenzan, asked him why he did not pay his fine and go.

Lamata did not understand, so an interpreter was called for and as an interpreter. When he informed Lamata that there was but $1 fine against him, the Italian was quickly made out of the place. Some minutes later when the name of Frenzan was called, the only person left was Frenzan. He would not answer to the name, and it then began to dawn upon the officials that they had blundered.

CONSERVATOR GUARDS MRS. FOY'S ESTATE

Aged New Haven Woman, Who Lavished Money on Yale Student, Yields.

HER INCOME IS $75,000

Special to the Boston American.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 7.—After having supported a Yale student in luxury for three years, in the face of opposition from her relatives, Mrs. Lavinia M. Foy, of this city, capitulated this morning and agreed to the appointment of a conservator to guard her fortune against the wiles of designing men.

Mrs. Foy's letter of acquiescence to the appointing of a conservator was presented to the Probate Court this morning by Burton Mansfield, one of the trustees of the Foy estate.

Judge Cleveland asked for objection, and since Mrs. Foy was willing none appeared, Burton Mansfield was appointed to the position, and his bond was set at $10,000. He told the court Mrs. Foy's income is $7,500 a year. The application was made by Burton Mansfield and Charles C. Hillier, of Boston, as trustees, and by General George H. Harmon, Mrs. Foy's son by her first marriage. Mr. Hillier's petition was related to Mrs. Foy, having married her granddaughter.

The reason of the application for a conservator was that Mrs. Foy was spending much money on Ernest N. Hurd, a Yale senior, who has lived at her home since his sophomore year. A temporary injunction has been obtained by her trustees and relatives restraining Hurd from entering her home. Since Mrs. Foy will undoubtedly receive a liberal allowance from the estate through her conservator, she would be able to continue furnishing the youth with money. For this reason, a vigorous effort will be made by her relatives to have the temporary injunction made permanent.

At the Foy home this morning the maid insisted that Mrs. Foy was too ill to be seen. Young Hurd is still attending recitations at Yale and intends to graduate with his class.

BIDDING ORPHAN GIRL ENTER

MRS E.M. RANDALL MABEL RANDALL

WANTS TO ADOPT CHILD AS PLAYMATE FOR DAUGHTER

Gilbertville Woman Anxious to Adopt Child Who Has No One to Care for Her.

Is there any little girl, an orphan, seven or eight years of age, in Boston, who wants a kind mother, a loving sister and a comfortable home?

If no there is just such a golden opportunity awaiting her. Last week the following letter was sent to the BOSTON AMERICAN:

Editor of AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I have been a subscriber of your paper for the past ten months, and as a favor I ask will you kindly let me know where I can get a little girl from seven to ten years old. I have lost two sweet girls, one eight and the other six. I want to adopt a child that has no one to care for her, and I will give her a good home, with a mother's kind, loving care, so if you will let me know you will never regret it. You will be doing me a great favor and giving some poor child a mother's love and kindness who perhaps has never known either. So, hoping to hear from you very soon, I am very respectfully

MRS. E. M. RANDALL,
Gilbertville, Mass., Box 7.

A writer for the AMERICAN visited Mrs. Randall at her home in Gilbertville and found all that the letter held forth for the little one who is to be adopted true, and much more besides.

The Randall home is a trim, brown, eight room cottage, resting on a big knoll, from which one can see the entire village which nestles in the Berkshire hills. The house is cosey and comfortably furnished. Daniel Randall, the husband of Mrs. Randall, is a builder and contractor, with a flourishing business.

In Gilbertville the family stands high, and is well liked on all sides. Both Mr. and Mrs. Randall attend the Congregational Church. They have been married a year. Mrs. Randall was a widow with one child, Mabel, a pretty flaxen-haired little girl, who is constantly wishing for a sister to play with and to love. The reason why she wants to adopt a child and just what she will do for it, Mrs. Randall gave to the representative of the AMERICAN.

By Mrs. Edith M. Randall.

"This is why I wish to adopt a little girl. I have now a daughter, Mabel, nine years old. She longs for companionship and misses her two little sisters, who died. Until a year ago my home was in Philadelphia. There my first husband and my other two little girls died.

"One year ago I married Mr. Randall, and since then have lived here in Gilbertville. As you can see for yourself, this village, while very pretty and in the heart of a farming district, is in itself a manufacturing place and so made up largely of a foreign element. Consequently I do not allow Mabel to play with the children here, and naturally she is lonesome.

"But not only for Mabel's playmate do I want a child. It will help them both in lots of ways to be brought up together. I am afraid my daughter might grow to become selfish, thoughtless and conceited were she the only one here in the home all her life.

"I want a child that has no parents living and that no one knows but a thing of her parents. If I can get a girl whose parents died when she was a baby then I can really make her believe I am her mother. In treatment she will never know the difference. She shall have our name, wear the same clothes that Mabel wears, go to school with her, have the same toys and books.

Offers Best of Care and a Mother's Love to Some Needy Little One.

"I really do not care to know anything of the little girl's parentage, for I believe that environment is stronger than heredity. My child is light, with blue eyes. Her temperament is a fluid, nervous one. She is reserved, good natured, kind and rather self-conscious. If possible I should like to get a dark-eyed and dark-haired little girl who is of a courageous nature, natural, unaffected, cheery and friendly in her ways. By having the two children entirely opposite I think their natures will react upon each other.

"Although Mabel is nine years old she has never quite given up the idea that her little sisters who died would return to her. And so I shall allow her to think that the new child is truly her sister.

"My husband is perfectly willing that I should adopt a child. His father died lately and left him a few thousand dollars. So we are perfectly able to care for another child. We go to the Congregational church here, and every Sunday Mabel goes to Sunday school.

"I love children dearly and would like to bring up a big number if I felt financially able to do so, but I am taking a very prudent and help for Mabel I think that it should be a great thing for the little one whom I will adopt.

"Love is every child's heritage, and I know there are children who don't know the meaning of it at all. But a motherless little girl whom I shall adopt will come into a kingdom of love. For not only would I love her, but Mabel has a little fund in store for her long looked for sister.

"All that I would ask is that the child should be given up entirely to me, and that she would not be told that I was not her own mother.

FIREMEN HAVE ROD IN PICKLE FOR EMMONS

They Will Defy His Ruling on Sunday Music at Their Memorial Service.

SHARP PROTESTS ARE MADE

Chairman W. H. H. Emmons, of the police board, having applied his order prohibiting Italian parades with music on Sunday forenoon, during hours of worship in churches, to the veteran firemen of Boston, who wish to celebrate the memorial day of the veteran firemen of the State on Sunday next, has stirred up a hornet's nest.

The firemen were angry, but subsided after a single protest. But the firemen are vehement in their denunciation of Judge Emmons, and declare that they will parade and have music, as they have done for ten years past, and as veteran firemen in all other parts of the State will do, regardless of Emmons.

Called on Parker.

A representative of one of the firemen's organizations, accompanied by Senator Garland, called on Attorney-General Parker, at the State House, and asked for his opinion as to whether the Sabbath law applied to the firemen's memorial parade. Mr. Parker informed them that his official duty was to advise the Governor, the Legislature and departments heads only, but he expressed a private opinion which was quite comforting to the firemen, and they believe that it will cause Judge Emmons to reverse his ruling.

Attorney Walter A. Webster, a member of the Star of Jamaica Veteran Firemen's Association, said of the situation to-day:

"At best, it is by a strict construction of the law that Judge Emmons makes his ruling, and like many of his other performances it is at first greeted with a storm of protest that sees only one side of things.

Action Are "Freakish."

"What public necessity calls for the stopping of a parade like this? What possible harm can happen to the public morals if it goes on? Men previous to Mr. Emmons with fully his quota of wisdom never indexed the everyday out-of-doing programmes. Boston, in the past, has not been Puritanical enough to be so stupid, and it ill becomes an official now to so endeavor to become the laughing stock of liberal men. His actions are freakish, mediaeval and an impediment to the progress of Boston, and it is simply marvelous that a man can be so calloused as to totally misinterpret public opinion regarding himself."

The organization which will take part in the memorial observance are the Roxbury Veteran Firemen's Association, the Boston Veteran Firemen's Association, details from the Boston Fire Department and the Boston Fire Department Relief, the Firemen's Charitable Association, the Barnicoat Firemen's Association, the Charlestown Veteran Firemen's Association and the Star of Jamaica Veteran Firemen's Association.

MISS CLARA PRINCE AT NOON BECAME

ROGER WOLCOTT'S BRIDE

ROGER WOLCOTT MISS CLAIRE PRINCE

TO WED TO-DAY IN ST. STEPHENS.

In St. Stephen's Church To-day Son of Late Ex-Governor Is Married.

Today's society wedding was that of Miss Claire Prince, the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Prince, to Roger Wolcott, eldest son and namesake of the late Governor Wolcott, at high noon St. Stephen's was filled to the doors, during the hour of the ceremony, and the throng that flocked to be present at the nuptials.

While St. Stephen's is a less ornate edifice than many of the newer and up-to-date churches it admits of more decorating, and it looked its prettiest for the occasion. Pink and white was the color scheme, and as these two colors consist of an infinite variety of flowers, the church presented a charming appearance.

The bride was attired in a Princess dress of heavy white satin draped with some rare lace that has been in the family for years, and her veil is also an heirloom, and one that was worn by her maternal grandmother. The only ornaments she wore were some splendid pearls, given her by the bridegroom.

There were a number of ushers, including William Fewsmith Wolcott and S. Huntington Wolcott, the brothers of the bridegroom; Richard Lawrence, John Lawrence, Harold Peabody and Livingston Davis, all cousins, and James Tarleton Bliss, James Lawrence, Jr., of Groton, also was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Beacon street home of the bride's parents, at which only the members of the families and the most intimate friends of the contracting parties were present.

30,000 PEOPLE

See Northampton's GREAT PARADE

NORTHAMPTON, June 7.—Northampton celebrated starting its fourth anniversary today. There was a parade three miles long, a dinner and speaking to a big tent in the evening. There were eight bands in the parade, four companies of the State militia, sixty floats, many of them illustrating historical episodes or ancient customs.

Governor Bates and his staff, Admiral Cook, of the navy, and Alderman Compton, of Boston, were among the guests of the parade. About 30,000 strangers were in town to see the celebration and fireworks will close with fireworks to-night.

CALL CERTAIN, 8,000 TO STRIKE

Final action in ordering a strike of the 8,000 members of the International Union of Ladies' Garment Workers, which will involve 40,000 men in the workroom, will be taken by the convention now in session at this city if the determination of officers of the union say it will certainly be declared.

"It is a fight for life and liberty for us," declared Abraham Bisno, head of the sweatshop means slow death and labor under conditions unbearable to the union trade. The union means independence for the worker, but the employer will not sign a wage in keeping with the work performed.

At the meeting this afternoon delegates by the local unions President Schlesinger's report, which he urged that the union adopt Socialism, was discussed.

Bernard Shaw, a typographical Union No. 13, took an opposite view to that of President Schlesinger. He said: "I don't allow any ism in your union except trade unionism. Keep politics out of your international and your local unions. Politics will only disrupt a union and veer it from its true purpose.

TO DRAG MYSTIC FOR LOST MAN

Somerville police are preparing to drag the Mystic River for the body of Melville G. Wallace, No. 2 Wellington avenue, Somerville.

His parents reported to-day that he had been missing since Sunday night. He is thirty four years old and single. He has been suffering mentally, his parents said, and they fear he has drowned himself. Up to to get work, he has been dependent.

He has dark hair, sandy mustache, is five feet and eleven inches tall, weighs 150 pounds and had on black clothes.

MARRIED THO' MILES APART

HOUSTON, Texas, June 7.—Hundreds of miles apart Eldonare Scott of this city and a young woman of Havana, Cuba, were married to each other yesterday.

It was all done by proxy. A friend of the bridegroom represented him in Havana and a friend of the bride represented her in Houston. Each ceremony was elaborate in detail.

Now Mrs. Scott is hastening to this city to join her husband. Her parents objected to allow her to start alone, unmarried, so the proxy idea was resorted to.

The couple will probably have a short distance ceremony performed in this city.

BANKERS KNEW TELLER PLUNGED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 7.—Just how Douglass M. Smith, teller of the Tradesmen's Bank, spent the $70,000 he stole from the bank's funds the directors learned from the detailed report at a meeting yesterday.

Smith always explained his extravagance to his friends by saying that he had been successful in a little "flyer" in the stock market. The bank officials knew of his free money spending, but they also accepted his explanation, secure in the thought that his accounts were straight. Smith has a wealthy brother in Providence, who says he will stand by the defaulting teller.

CABMAN'S TALE FAVORS NAN PATTERSON

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Bisped by the hope that her deliverance was at hand, "Nan" Patterson, the actress, who was with "Caesar" Young when he met death in a downtown cab, appeared before Supreme Court Justice Clarke to-day, in response to a writ of habeas corpus, which had been served on Coroner Brown, the District Attorney and the warden of the Tombs. She again wore the somber attire she has chosen for her appearance in court. Her manner betrayed neither nervousness nor apprehension.

Former Assistant District Attorney O'Reilly, who has been retained by her father to assist her counsel, Levy & Unger, moved for a suspension of the writ of habeas corpus so that he could render to Coroner Brown the $5,000 which the latter deposited yesterday as the woman's security.

Declined to Suspend Writ.

This rose to obtain the girl's freedom was strenuously opposed by Assistant District Attorney Garvan. Justice Clarke declined to suspend the writ, and the argument began. Miss Patterson's attorneys declare that by postponing the inquest the district attorney was suppressing evidence which would clear the girl of all suspicion.

Mr. Levy asserted that he was prepared to produce before the coroner a witness who would swear that within a week "Caesar" Young had declared to him his intention of killing himself because he would not live without Nan Patterson.

Cabman's Story Favors Nan.

Frederick Michaels, the cab driver, through whose alleged witnessing of the shooting the prosecution hoped to fasten the guilt of Young's death upon the Patterson woman, told the AMERICAN to-day that he did not think Young was killed by Nan Patterson.

"We had just passed Walter street," said Michaels, in speaking of the drive, "and were in the midst of a press of trucks and express wagons when a pistol shot sounded out. Almost as soon as I had recovered my senses the scene on the roof was pushed back by the woman inside of the cab and I leaned forward to hear what she had to say. She was much excited and said: 'Drive to the nearest drug store at once.'

"I did not see the shooting or the revolver. I heard no sounds of quarrelling in the hansom on the way down. Young was very nervous and seemed to be excited about something or other."

FRENCH SAYS RYAN KILLED TO GET CASH

Special to the Boston American.

PLYMOUTH, June 7.—The jury to-day began to hear evidence in the case of Cyrus L. Ryan, charged with drowning Soo Hoo Yoke, a Chinese laundryman, in his washtub on January 28. A large crowd was in court.

After they had inspected the scene of the murder the jury listened to the opening by District Attorney French, who said:

"The object of this assault upon the Chinaman was robbery or theft. The prisoner at the bar was the last man seen in the laundry and his face lies in your power and decision. You have seen the laundry and how remote and dark a place it was. You are here to act on your judgment, to act as men and carry out the law. You are to decide whether this was a case of drowning or drowning and assault. If after evidence is heard you believe the man guilty you must return such a verdict.

Jury Views the Scene.

The scene of the tragedy was viewed late yesterday afternoon by the jury, in charge of deputy sheriffs and District Attorney Asa P. French, the prosecuting attorney. Judge Fred Hagar and Attorney Callahan, counsel for the defence.

About forty witnesses have been summoned by the Government and a large number for the defence, so that the case will not be finished for nearly a week.

First Government Witness.

Harrison L. House, of West Hanover, was the first witness called by the government. He is a surveyor who pointed explained plans of laundry and supposed route taken by Ryan.

Dr. Henry W. Dudley, medical examiner, who viewed the body, testified that he found the Chinaman dead about 4 o'clock on the afternoon of January 28. He found skin wounds on back of neck and froth flowing from mouth. Held autopsy in laundry January 29. Chinaman weighed about 115 pounds. Found lungs full of watery and swollen and bronchial tubes filled with water, showing he had drowned.

Dr. William B. Greenstein, of Hanover, said he was the first physician to see victim; found man lying across wash boiler, face down, with water dripping from mouth; placed Chinaman on floor and tried to resuscitate him; found scratches on neck similar to finger marks; formed opinion that man was attacked and drowned.

MADE TO WED GIRL AT POINT OF REVOLVER

GARVIN PRAISES R. I. CATHOLICS

PAWTUCKET, R. I., June 7.—"The Catholic Church is doing splendid work in teaching the gospel of good citizenship," said Governor Garvin at the public reception to Music Hall tendered Rev. Edward C. Carrigan, of Phenix, newly appointed pastor of the city's largest parish, to-night.

Continuing, he said: "Under our laws church and State are separate, but both work in harmony to produce the highest type of citizenship. We wish the new pastor every success in his efforts."

Mayor James H. Higgins extended to him a cordial welcome, declaring his coming was the forerunner of another factor in helping to obtain good government.

ME A GRAFTER? TAKE IT BACK

—Ald. Collier, of Chelsea

At the meeting of the Chelsea board Alderman Young emphatically said:

"One of the members of this board is nothing but an outpost and picket for this lighting corporation. I don't intend to be a grafter, and neither will I be robbed."

Alderman Collier attributed the remarks being intended for him, jumped to his feet and said:

"The alderman is referring to me, and I demand that he take back what he has said in regard to my being a grafter and a robber."

The chairman said that as Alderman Young had mentioned no name a motion to compel retraction could not be entertained.

The passage was during a debate on an appropriation of $100 for an expert to inquire into the lighting situation.

KILLS A CHILD AND DRIVES ON

"You can't catch me. You can't catch me," cried little Filomena Di Amito, of 43½ Tileston street, North End, as she ran playfully into the roadway at Prince and Charter streets in time to be knocked down by a dashing horse that crushed her life out.

The swiftly driven horse and carriage are supposed to belong to a swell Back Bay family out on a slumming tour. The driver went on as if nothing had happened. The police are now seeking him on the charge of manslaughter, as the child died at the Relief Hospital.

IDAHO'S 6 FOR W. R. HEARST

By Boston American Leased Wire.

WEISER, Idaho, June 7.—The Democratic State Convention elected its six delegates to the St. Louis National Convention to cast their votes for William Randolph Hearst for President.

The fight for Mr. Hearst was led by former United States Senator Henry Heitfeld. The instructions are ironclad.

Heitfeld declared he had positively assured their Democratic friends they would vote the Democratic ticket if Hearst were the nominee, and this so strengthened the Hearst forces that no opposition appeared at the convention.

INEXPENSIVE BEAUTY

The advent of "Mission" furniture has introduced a delightful novelty into modern house furnishing.

The true "Mission" furniture was made by the monks and friars of the 16th and 17th centuries in Southern California, Arizona and Central America. The pieces now offered are copies from these old, hand-made articles. In their great variety, they are suited to the needs of every room in the house to-day.

From their simplicity of line, and the absence of all decoration, they are the most inexpensive cabinet work that can be bought. The "fuming" of the oak and other chemical processes through which it passes, disclose unsuspected qualities of beauty in the heart of the wood.

We are the headquarters in this city for "Mission" and Arts-and-Crafts furniture, and we quote very low prices for it.

DANCING SAYS HARVARD PROFESSOR BETTER IN SCHOOL LATIN CURRICULUM THAN

"Dancing should be taught in public schools in preference to Latin" says Professor Charles Grandgent, of Harvard.

Professor Grandgent lives at 107 Walker street, Cambridge, and has the chair of Romance languages at the university. Dispatches from Chicago to the BOSTON AMERICAN say he thus favors dancing to a dead language. If this ideas given in a Chicago lecture prevail, say the Chicago educational authorities, we may soon have classes in the polka, the schottische, the gliddeone two-step and the multifold buck and-wing in our public schools.

Grandgent's remarks are given as follows:

"It is plain that the possession of a strange tongue is essential to the philologist, and that it is often convenient for tourists with foreigners is too frequently a mere consideration.

"No such grounds a better case could be made for dancing as a high school study, as nearly all pupils are likely to have opportunity to dance."

NEW TURF KING WINS $60,000

NEW YORK, June 7.—Joe Yaeger's luck is the by-word of the race course. The gossips of thousand trots say Yaeger did not win a cent less than $60,000 yesterday. This was won on two races. He backed his own filly Minnola, in the first race, from 5 to 1 down to 1 to 4, and she won. He placed most of his winnings back on W. R. Jenning's four-year-old filly Tarpeia, ridden by the clever young jockey, Hildebrand, under contract to Yaeger.

Yaeger, who has won more than $250,000 since the Morris Park races began, is known as the "Boy Plunger." Four years ago he was a clerk for Joe Ullman, when that bookmaker was running a poolroom, and his salary was $5 a day. He is reported to wreath more than $1,000,000 to-day. He has the betting ring almost in a state of paule.

MALDEN DRAPED FOR CONVERSE

Malden's public buildings and many private ones are heavy in mourning for Elisha S. Converse, including the City Hall, National Bank and Y. M. C. A.

The funeral to-morrow afternoon will be conducted by Rev. C. H. Moss, of the First Baptist Church, and business throughout the city will be suspended.

Mr. Converse left an estate of several millions, and in his lifetime he gave $250,000 to public objects in Malden.

FRENCH DUKE TIRES OF AMERICAN BRIDE

FORMER MISS HELEN MORTON'S HUSBAND NOW SEEKS DIVORCE.

WEDDED A TITLE; MARRIAGE A FAILURE.

Special Cable to Boston American.

PARIS, June 7.—Developments of a character seldom disclosed even in a divorce action have occurred in the suit of the Duke of Valencay against his wife, formerly Miss Helen Morton, the beautiful daughter of Levi P. Morton, ex-Vice-President of the United States, former Governor of New York and famed in the financial world for his wealth and business sagacity.

It is said here that the Princess de Sagan, mother of the Duke, urged him to bring an action for the dissolution of his marriage because his wife had borne no children to inherit the Valencay estate, part of which was purchased. It is asserted by Levi P. Morton when it was in danger of falling into possession of others than the Valencays.

Duchess Leaves Chateau.

The duchess, after a violent quarrel with her mother-in-law, left the chateau, for which Mr. Morton is declared to have paid $600,000, and is now living in the Rue Constantinople, where, each night, her father sleeps, leaving Mrs. Morton at their hotel.

It is said that the banker fears personal violence toward his daughter and has determined to watch over her welfare.

Indicates Quarrel's Depth.

The presence each night of Mr. Morton at the Rue Constantinople residence, is indicative of the status of the quarrel which has involved such prominent names. Until now it has not been known on what grounds the Duke asks for a dissolution of the marital ties. He alleges mutual antipathy, incompatibility—and, strange to say, the Duchess is offering no opposition to the proceedings, being only too glad to have herself rid of the link which binds her to a family which has gained notoriety in more ways than one.

Another report says the Duchess has herself applied to civil courts for a legal divorce, the grounds therefor being withheld from public knowledge for the present.

HELD ON CHARGE OF KILLING BABE

Pale and trembling, and with her plead ing eyes reddened by tears, Bessie L. Moody was arraigned in the Quincy Police Court to-day on the charge of murdering her girl babe. She waived examination and was held without bail. The body of the infant was found on the beach at the foot of River street, Quincy, where the girl lives with her parents.

The body was wrapped in newspapers and a handkerchief was tied around the neck. The police say that the latter was used to strangle the baby five days after her birth and that while she lived the infant was kept concealed by the mother in her room.

The police say that the young woman confessed to tying the handkerchief about her babe's neck, but that she has refused to answer other questions. She is twenty-five years old and was born in Nova Scotia. She is very attractive in appearance. After the body was found, four days ago, the police began an investigation, which led Inspector McCoy to a house in Hale place, South Boston, where the young woman was visiting a friend. She was taken back to Quincy a prisoner.

1,000 CASES OF LUNG TROUBLE

NEW YORK, June 7.—Although the weekly report of the Board of Health shows a big drop in the death rate of this city, it announces that pulmonary diseases have reached the highest figure on record. There are now 1,000 cases under direct care of the Health Department, and the officials have issued a card of instructions to check the spread of lung trouble. Fresh air is, they say, the best preventive.

CROSSED OCEAN IN TINY CRAFT

Ludwig Isenbaum, Who Sailed from This City Last August, Back in New York.

TRIP A FINANCIAL FAILURE

Ludwig Isenbaum, who sailed from Boston on August 11 last in a nineteen-foot boat across the Atlantic ocean, arrived today in New York, having worked his way as a steerage steward. His bold exploit has been a financial failure.

The sailor returned in the Kroonland from Antwerp. He left this city in a centreboard boat nineteen feet overall on November 20 he reached Gibraltar, its crew suffering stormy weather during the greater part of his trip across the ocean, but was able to sail his small craft successfully to the other side.

The hardy mariner passed some time sailing along the coast in Spain and finally went to Marseilles. Isenbaum, who is a naturalized American, says he made the trip for glory and not for gain and that he is willing to risk the dangers of the Atlantic again if a purse is made up. During the entire voyage to Gibraltar Isenbaum says he sighted but two schooners.

RALLY IN R. R. STOCKS ENDS

NEW YORK, June 7.—The stock market to-day has been irregular with business still confined within small limits. The early movement in Ontario & Western was rather dampening to speculative sentiment, as it suggested the possible flattening out of the recent active movement. The stock was extremely dull at the start, with a declining tendency, and, while more business was done after the first half hour, it was not to the benefit of values which showed a total loss of 1 per cent. from last night.

United States Steel preferred was under pressure and lost 3⅝ per cent., although subsequently it gave hardening back to almost last night's close. International Paper covered down a point, but later rallied 2 per cent.

DRESSES AT THE HOWE WEDDING

DESCRIBES SOME OF THEM

By the Chaperon.

I HAVE not attended a wedding thus far this season that brought out a prettier or better dressed gathering than that of Miss Susan W. Howe to Philip S. Dalton at the Church of Our Saviour at Longwood. It was a representative society gathering in every respect and I cannot forego the pleasure of describing some of the gow . that I saw, for my readers' benefit.

Here are some of the prettiest:

MRS. HENRY S. HOWE, ivory gros silk, plaid plated bodice, drop collar of rose point lace, small black tulle hat; bouquet of dark purple sweet peas.

MRS. JAMES LAWRENCE, pale lavender cloth, with tight-fitting bodice of Irish lace strapped with green velvet ribbons; hat of black straw trimmed with white plumes.

MRS. HENRY A. GREW, black lace and white satin, hat of black velvet, trimmed; fetched low bonnet.

MRS. EDWARD S. GREW, black and white silk, with black jetted lace toque, diamond neckace.

MRS. HENRY L. HIGGINSON, pearl gray silk with green velvet trimmings; large straw bonnet; long white plumes; black lace.

MRS. AMOS LAWRENCE, pale blue veiling with blue lace; deep cream girdle of pale blue silk.

MRS. FRED LYMAN, white accordion pleated crepe with white lace hat.

MISS RACHAEL BROOKS, green and white figured organdie, large black picture hat.

MRS. GUY LOWELL, pale yellow silk and tulle, with diamond and pearl necklace and large black picture hat.

MISS GRIFFITHS, pale gray veiling and white lace; large white lace picture hat.

MISS CONSTANCE WILLIAMS, cream white veiling, black lace; cream straw hat.

BIG DEMAND FOR STOCK OF NEW CHEMICAL COMPANY

Since the announcement of the organization of the International Electro-Chemical Company I have received so many requests from friends and others, asking my personal opinion of the stock of the company, as a profitable investment, that it would be quite a task for me to attempt to answer all such inquiries promptly. I therefore take this public method of stating my opinion of the securities of the company, which I trust will be fully and completely understood.

I have become a director of the company, and accepted the important office of president, only after a most careful investigation, and, after such investigation, do not hesitate to express my satisfaction with reference to the process to be used by the company for the manufacture of its products, and the plans for the development of the enterprise and the establishment of several large plants.

Since I completed my investigation much has transpired to strengthen my convictions. During the past week the process has been carefully investigated by three experts in chemistry who are familiar with the methods now used in the manufacture of acids, and the fact that they recommended to the clients whom they represented that they make investments in the stock of the company is certainly stronger evidence of the value of the securities than any argument I could offer in their favor.

I can, however, add that, as president of the company, with the support and co-operation of an able and efficient Board of Directors, I shall give my efforts to a proper management and direction of its affairs, and am strong in the conviction that the stock will be earnestly sought by investors at an early date. I feel so well satisfied with the conditions and outlook that I believe an advance in the price of the company's stock should be made at the next meeting of the full Board of Directors.

E. ST. JOHN,
President.

Boston, June 4, 1904.

The announcement of the incorporation and complete organization of the International Electro-Chemical Company, a corporation organized for the purpose of manufacturing sulphuric and hydrochloric acids, carbonate of soda and other by-products by a new and greatly improved process, was made in the newspapers of Boston, Sunday, May 29. At that time it was announced that a limited allotment of the Company's treasury stock would be offered for public subscription, and that the subscription list would be opened at 10 A. M. on Tuesday, May 31st. The announcement was accompanied by a signed statement by each of the ten gentlemen constituting the Board of Directors.

The announcement has attracted general attention, and already there is a deep-rooted conviction in the public mind that the Company will become an important factor in the chemical industry of the United States forthwith.

In the personnel of the Board of Directors, the Company has been accepted by the public as showing extraordinary strength and superior executive ability. It is pleasing and especially gratifying to know that the initial announcement of the Company has been received in good faith and favor by the public, which at once places its securities among high class investments from the very beginning, removing and taking away all elements of speculation.

This is fully attested by the fact that before the subscription books have been open one full week there has been enrolled among the Company's list of stockholders investors of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Kansas.

The Company will erect large plants for the manufacture of sulphuric and hydrochloric acids, carbonate of soda and other by-products, by an electrolytic process, which makes it possible for both sulphuric and hydrochloric acids to be made by a single operation and at a cost no greater than is required by the old method to make either one alone. Figures have been made and submitted by experts showing that by this new process a two-hundred-cell plant will produce 197 tons of sulphuric and hydrochloric acids, and 94 tons of carbonate of soda daily, and yield a net profit to the Company of $1,620,990 annually, which would enable the Company to pay dividends of approximately 50% annually on its entire capital stock. The fact should not be overlooked, however, that the building, equipping and operating of a two-hundred-cell plant is but the beginning of the Company's industrial campaign. It is a part of the plans now under consideration to build and equip as rapidly as possible other plants of similar size, located in different parts of the country, and which will place the Company in the front rank and give it the position of undisputed leader in the chemical industry.

Figures have been made by experts and submitted showing that by this new process this Company could, if it became necessary, manufacture and sell its products at exactly the same cost of others to manufacture, and reap therefrom large returns on every dollar invested in the enterprise.

Sulphuric and hydrochloric acids and carbonate of soda are staple products, for which there is an increasing demand and an unlimited market. The census reports show that there are in the United States one hundred and twenty-seven factories manufacturing sulphuric and hydrochloric acids, with an invested capital of approximately $200,000,000. The census reports show further that the output has increased more than 100% during the past ten years, and that there is a corresponding increase in the demand.

Sulphuric acid is used largely in the manufacture of fertilizers—by all iron and steel manufacturers—by all brass and wire manufacturers—in the refining of oils—in the treatment of gold, silver, lead and copper ores; it is used largely by all dyeing establishments, bleachers, and by scores upon scores of other industries, while new and important uses are being found for it almost daily. The market, therefore, is as firmly established as commerce itself.

This Company will manufacture these important staples by its own new and improved process at less than one-half the cost now required to produce by the old method, which is practically unchanged for a hundred years, and is used by all acid factories in the United States, and there is in the minds of all who are familiar with the completed plans of the Company a firm conviction that the Company's stock, will, in a very short space of time, attain a price never before reached by the securities of an industrial corporation.

A complete demonstration plant is in operation daily at Malden, where the practical workings of this new discovery may be seen by all persons who may be sufficiently interested in the matter to desire to make a personal investigation.

The company offers a limited allotment of its treasury stock for public subscription at $5 per share, the par value of the shares being $10 each, all stock being fully paid and non-assessable. The subscription list closes on or before Thursday, June 16th, and the Company expressly reserves the right to close the subscription list at any time without notice and to reject any and all subscriptions, or to allot smaller amounts than may be applied for. Payment for stock will be accepted on the following basis:

25 per cent. of the amount subscribed for on application,
25 per cent. of the amount subscribed for on June 20th,
25 per cent. of the amount subscribed for on July 10th, and the remaining 25% of the amount subscribed for on August 1st. Payment may be made in full at time of application under discount of 3% from price thereof. Applications may be sent by telegraph or by mail, and will receive the same careful attention as if made in person at the office. Certificates will be issued in lots of 10 shares or more.

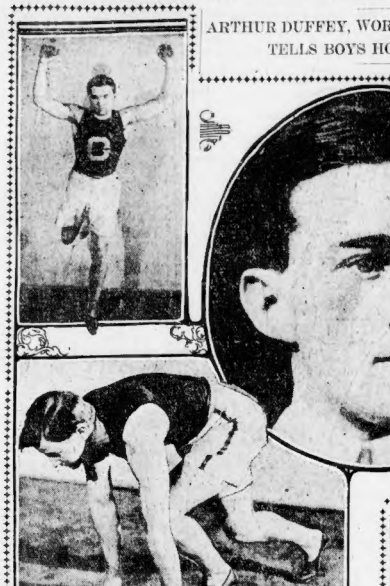
HEARST GUESTS AT ST. LOUIS TO INCLUDE

CRACK HIGH SCHOOL TEAM

ARTHUR DUFFEY, WORLD'S RECORD RUNNER, TELLS BOYS HOW TO SPRINT.



SCHOOLBOY ATHLETES IN TRAINING.

INTEREST in the team of Boston Public School boys that is to be taken to the St. Louis Fair to compete in the Olympian games by Congressman William Randolph Hearst continues to grow, and especially crack team of High School boys is assured.

The big meet at the grounds of the Dorchester High School on the afternoon of June 17 is looked forward to by the High School boys as a contest that will, to a measure, determine what boys will be selected to represent the school's of this city at the Fair.

On the afternoon of the next day, June 18, the Grammar School athletes will meet in open competition at the Charlesbank public grounds, and the same events arranged for the World's Fair competition will be run off there. The winners will make up the team of Grammar School boys to go as Mr. Hearst's guests and take part in the Olympian competition.

Principals of Grammar Schools who have boys who are in condition to enter the June 18 contest, and go to the Fair if they win, should send their names at once to Edward F. O'Dowd, of the Dudley Street Grammar School, as well as the names of the events they expect to enter.

Herewith is presented No. 3 in the series of articles written for the BOSTON AMERICAN on athletics. Arthur F. Duffey, the champion sprinter, tells the schoolboys of Boston how to sprint. It is hoped that the Boston boys who expect to go to the World's Fair and compete in the games there as the guests of Mr. Hearst will make a careful study of what Mr. Duffey says.

Mr. Duffey's article follows:

By Arthur F. Duffey,

Georgetown University, World's Record Holder for 50 and 100 Yards.

COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY AMERICAN-JOURNAL-EXAMINER.

TO the beginner in sprint running, I would say that the strictest rules must be followed and a regular life led. Rise early, take a cold or tepid bath and a hard rub down. Eat plain and wholesome food. Never overexert yourself, and with the foregoing rules and early to bed every night any boy or man will be put in fair condition as a preliminary to a regular course of training.

Begin by jogging about a mile or two across country in the morning at an easy pace, keeping this up for two or three weeks, and always taking a good rub down when you return home. After this preliminary work in the morning take a rest, and during the day use chest weights or dumbbells for developing the arms, chest and shoulder muscles.

As in running, begin these exercises gently, gradually increasing the violence and length of duration when you find you can do so without tiltiness. Never overtire yourself in any way. Take a brisk walk before going to bed, and retire early.

After a course of about three weeks as given above you will find your muscles developed, your frame in good condition and your body generally so evenly developed that you will be in proper shape for training.

Live and Train Regularly.

Having gotten your body into condition to undergo a strict and rigorous course, begin by running sprints of fifty or sixty yards for a week, running the distance about five times at almost your top speed.

The afternoon is the best time for this and here I may say that I have always found it to do my training as near the hour at which my race is to be run as possible. The reason for this is that if a regular life is led your body will not suffer from a longer or shorter time in action than if the training is done at the regular hour when you toe the mark on the day of the race.

Acquire Long, Bounding Stride.

After a week of these short sprints, the art of starting may be taken up. On the start depends the race, and starting is the most difficult part of sprinting for the beginner to master.

The old method of an upright standing start has gone out of date. The proper method of starting is the "crouching" start.

First the hands must be on the line, the forward foot being five inches behind the line, one knee touching the ground and level with the instep of the forward foot. At the "caution" from the starter the athlete approaches the line and assumes an easy position. At the next word, "Get set," raise the back knee from the ground, throwing the weight of the entire body on the forward knee and let the body fall forward as if you were going to fall on your face.

Hold your breath all the time you are on the mark. At the sound of the pistol push the ground away from your hands. This will raise your body. Push hard with both feet simultaneously, and although you appear to be falling forward, your momentum will keep you up, and before you realize it you are flying down the track.

Acquire Long, Bounding Stride.

Now you are going—pay no attention whatever to your opponents—keep your head up and look straight forward all the time. Run as if you were running alone, whether your opponent is ahead or behind you.

After leaving the mark try to acquire a bounding step similar to a rubber ball and stride well from hips, which gives you the advantage of a longer stride. While I am barely five feet seven inches in height, I take a stride in racing of nine feet, as big as that taken by Bernie Wefers, the former champion, who is six feet one inch. On measuring the tape say about ten feet away, the runner should pull himself together with all the force that he can command.

Put out every effort, wherever your opponent may be, and fall forward, or practically throw yourself bodily on the tape at the finishing line. This will gain you many inches and win you many a race.

Use of the Arms.

The arms should be developed as well as the legs, as they play an important part in sprinting.

On rising from the start clinch your fists. Bring the left arm diagonally across the chest as the rear foot is pushed forward, and each arm is swung across the body alternately in unison with the stride. The cross motion of the arms, I have found, proves a great help to the regularity of the "bounding" stride. Great care should be taken when practicing this motion that the arms are not swung too far out or the distance will be nullified.

The body should be carried at an incline forward of about eighty degrees. Many a race is lost by a man carrying his body upright and rigid, both of which retard the speed.

Don't Smoke or Drink.

In conclusion I would lay down the following rules: Let the diet be plain. Disperse with parties, cards, etc. Above all, never smoke or drink alcoholic liquids when training. You will be better without the two latter at all times. Cigarettes are fatal to athletes. Bathe daily and always use rough towels after a bath and after taking any exercise. Never overexert yourself and exhaust all your strength in any trial. Always finish your training with something left in you. Only work the hardest in the race itself. Finally, let me impress on all aspiring athletes the fact that rightness in purpose in training and steady perseverance are as essential as the bulldog determination necessary to land you a winner at the tape.

BRITISH SHIP OFF TO TANGIER

By Boston American Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Dispatches from Gibraltar say the British battleship Prince of Wales sailed to-day for Tangier, Morocco.

The United States will probably receive a territorial concession on the west coast of Africa in return for recognizing France in Morocco and joining hands with Great Britain in ensure Franco-Spanish amity.

The United States will maintain its great naval force at Tangier. These new developments is the great drama being played by the United States, France and Great Britain over the rescue of Perdicaris and Varley.

The battleship Illinois has been ordered to Gibraltar.

Hoffman Philip, United States Vice Consul, has gone from Tangier to Arzilla to treat with the bandit Raisuli for the release of Perdicaris and Varley. It is understood no offer is made on behalf of the Sultan for their release.

SUICIDE WROTE TO MOTHER AND TO SWEETHEART

WAS DETERMINED TO DIE

While the body of the sixteen-year-old boy suicide lay in a casket in a darkened room, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Addison B. Hopkins, of No. 580 Main street, Melrose, wept as they read the letters their son Otis had written before he swallowed "Rough on Rats" at Kezar Falls, Me. He told them he would be dead when his last words reached them.

He left home a year ago after a slight misunderstanding with his father. He told his sweetheart that he was going to win fame and fortune and return and wed her. Just before he died he wrote her a most decadent letter.

"I have nothing to live for," he wrote recently, forgetting that she and his parents loved him.

Letter from Mother.

After his death these were found in his clothing, endearing letters from his mother. She begged him to return home, where his father would have given him equal welcome and where he told her that she would send him money if he was in need. Beside these letters were others which he had written to his parents and one directed to his sweetheart.

Dear Mother: I am discouraged. I had wished to be successful in business and a credit to you and live like a man. I failed to do so, and now will die like a man. I hope you get this letter I will be dead. I bear no ill-will to any one. Your son, OTIS.

My Dear Frances: I had wished to be rich and make you happy. I can not give you all the things I wanted to. I am discouraged and will die like a man. I will be dead when you get my letter. You were always my best friend. Your old friend, OTIS.

Otis worked as a bellboy in Maine hotels, and was looking for employment when he went to Kezar Falls. Walking into a stable there, he said: "I have taken poison."

Took Second Dose.

He was hurried to the office of Dr Challis, where a stomach pump was used in time to have saved his life had he not taken more of the poison after being given copper by the physician. When the latter returned home he found the boy in great agony.

"I want to die," he whispered to the doctor. He smiled faintly, and his last words were: "Don't forget to mail the letter to mother and to her."

BACK FROM SEA, SEEKS SISTERS

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, June 7.—After a cruise of four years as an able seaman on the battleship Kentucky, Frithiof Hagberg returned to this city to-day, looking for three sisters whom he left to a house on Brackett street.

But his sisters moved away two years ago and no one knows whither. The sailor is heartbroken, as he had brought many little presents for them.

Hagberg said he would remain here three days, and if he then could get no trace of his sisters he would rejoin his ship.

OGLING IDLERS STIR NEWTON

Newton residents are up in arms against the ogling loafers who infest that station house each night. The police have only been able to move the gang from one spot to another. There is talk of the organization of a vigilance committee. Sunday evening there were forty-seven men and boys in one gang within a stone's throw from the most popular square in the city.

The district where the conditions are the worst is between Nonantum square and the Watertown line on one side and Newtonville square on the other. No unpleasant are reported as a result that women shun them as far as possible.

SUICIDE IDEA, NERVE FAILED

Wandering about the tracks of the Boston & Maine railroad, Charlestown, waiting for a train so that he could end his life, John F. Ryan, forty-two, a former Malden man, was found by the police of Division 15 before daybreak to-day. Ryan was taken to the station. He said he used to live in Malden, but had lost a small business, and since then had lived in a number of places.

He first said he intended to commit suicide, but later denied this. He was unable to tell his residence. A letter in his pocket was marked "Weybosset street, Providence, R. I." He will be examined to-day to determine his mental condition.

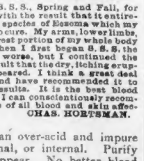
MUSIC TO AID POOR OF PARISH

For the first time in ten years the St. Vincent de Paul Society of the Mission Church, Roxbury, has to go outside of church collections for its charitable work, the unusually hard winter having exhausted the society's poor fund raised in the regular offerings.

So the members are planning their first entertainment to raise money for the society's charity list. This will be a concert in St. Alphonsus Hall Sunday night next.

Boston theatrical talent will assist. The society members have been managers of several Boston theatres, who readily promised to supply some theatrical concert numbers for the benefit of the poor of the parish.

CONSUMED BY A FIRE THAT WATER WILL NOT QUENCH



Eczema drives its victim almost to the verge of distraction by its intolerable itching, stinging and burning. It seems to set the skin on fire, and the tormented sufferer rubs and scratches till the flesh is raw and the skin is torn and bleeds. Nothing applied externally does much good, for the disease is internal; the blood is aflame, with acid poisons, that are forcing their way through the glands and pores of the skin, causing it to redden and swell and break out in splotches, pustules and pimples, from which a clear, yellow, watery matter exudes, hardens and dries, and then peels off in scales or fine particles like bran. Eczema kindles a fire that water will not quench, and that lotions, salves, powders and soap cannot smother. As warm weather comes on and the system is reacting and the blood making extra efforts to throw off the accumulated poisons, Eczema attacks with redoubled violence, and the sufferer is almost distracted by the fearful itching and burning. It is the most uncomfortable and aggravating of all skin eruptions and a terror in warm weather.

Local remedies give temporary ease, but as Eczema is not due to outside causes, but to disordered condition of the system and an over-acid and impure blood, the treatment must be constitutional, or internal. Purify the blood and the skin disease will disappear. No better blood remedy can be found than S. S. S. It builds up the sour and acid blood, rids it of all impurities and poison, stimulates the sluggish organs, and invigorates and tones up the entire system; and as all skin eruptions like Eczema are only symptoms of sick and bad blood, they naturally disappear when that vital fluid is again restored to health.

SSS

S. S. S. is guaranteed strictly vegetable. It is not only a blood purifier, but a splendid tonic and appetizer, making it an ideal spring medicine. Treat Eczema through the blood, or you will never get permanently rid of it. Write for our book on the Skin and its Diseases, which is mailed free. Medical advice furnished without cost to you.

ZEIGLER WINS LIVELY BOUT FROM BOWSER

Special to the Boston American.

SHARON, Penn., June 7.—In a whirlwind ten-round boxing contest Owen Zeigler, of Philadelphia, won on points over Mill Bowser, of Natrona, before the Monongahela Athletic Club, of South Sharon. The men fought at catch weights and were in fine condition.

In the first few rounds Bowser did all the leading, landing vicious body blows, playing for Zeigler's wind. Zeigler's stiff punches to the face did considerable damage, and when the bout ended, Bowser was bleeding profusely from the bad cuts on the eye and ear.

In the third round Zeigler smashed Bowser with his right and put him down. Bowser got back at Zeigler by flooring him in the fifth and ninth rounds.

In the eighth round Zeigler landed a stiff punch on Bowser's jaw which staggered him but he gamely came back with left and right to face and body. Both men went at it hammer and tongs in the final round and when the gong sounded Bowser was groggy, while Zeigler appeared fresh.

Kid Winfield and Kid Williams, both of New Castle, fought a six round draw in the preliminary fight.

BUTTE MINERS WILL BACK MUNROE

There are, no doubt, many people in the United States who think Jim Jeffries will batter up Jack Munroe just the same as he has his numerous other would-be dethroners.

But none of them live in Butte, Mont.

Butte, Mont., is in the heart of a mining district. The community is and a round Butte is, accordingly, composed mostly of miners. All miners are interested more or less in fighting.

They once saw their chum, in twelve minutes work, jump from a humble miner to one of the most talked of men in the world. He then left them. But travels of a man who had outfought Jeffries are known to all. They followed his every move, through the papers.

They have since read how he knocked a much-touted gigantic heavyweight in a punch. They read how he knocked out the famous Irish champion, Peter Maher, in four rounds, and the last thing they have read of Munroe's fighting ability is how he badly battered up Tom Sharkey, the man who had given Jeffries the two hardest fights of his career.

They all know the Jack Munroe and all about him in Butte. They know his game. They know he has the punch and they know he is not a bit afraid of Jeffries.

And that is why all Butte will back Jack Munroe to their last cent, as Cartoonist Tad depicts in the accompanying cut.

MANY THOUGHT IT WAS NEARY'S BOUT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, June 7.—At the American A. C. here the six-round fight between Charley Neary, of Milwaukee, and Clarence English, of Omaha, was called a draw by Referee Hogan, although many thought Neary should have had the verdict at the finish.

This was Neary's first appearance in Chicago, and, in fact, his first battle outside his native State. The strenuous, forceful fighting of the lad made a good impression on the spectators, and it was the opinion of many that if the bout had gone a few rounds further he would have put away his opponent.

Neary made play almost exclusively for the body, occasionally shooting a cross right or left to the jaw. But his main execution came in his mid-section wallops. He beat a continuous tattoo on English's ribs and stomach, and these blows, if continued for a few rounds more would probably have caused the collapse of the Omaha lad.

English used an effective left on Neary, and varied it with several ripping uppercuts to the jaw that shook up the Milwaukean considerably. In only one round did Neary, who ruled favorite in the betting, have a decided shade. This was in the second, when he tore loose at his taller opponent and dashed away with mighty rights and lefts to the body. Most of his work was done in the clinches, and it took much of the speed out of English.

HERRICK SOON CRIED QUITS

Special to the Boston American.

BALTIMORE, June 7.—Tommy Daly, formerly of Brooklyn, but now of this city, had an easy time defeating "Kid" Herrick, of Rochester, in their bout before the Northwell Athletic Club. Three rounds were required to bring the Rochester boy to the conclusion that he had enough.

Owing to the small crowd present the men agreed to box ten rounds instead of fifteen, and further decided that no decision should be made if they were both on their feet at the conclusion of the contest. The opening round was a bit slow, with both men fiddling. The second round was a repetition of the first and matters looked as if the bout might have been fixed.

The third round dispelled all such thoughts. When but little more than a few seconds had been clicked off Daly sent a left to the body and right to the jaw and his Rochester opponent was downed for a count of nine. He had scarcely gotten to his feet, when Daly again dropped him for nine. He arose and when Daly again went after him the Rochester boy acknowledged that he had enough and stopped.

KELLY QUIT IN SEVENTH

Special to the Boston American.

GLOUCESTER, June 7.—Before 500 members of the Gloucester A. C., Kid Pantz, of Boston, defeated Emergency Kelly, "the Newsboy King," in seven rounds. The bout was scheduled for fifteen rounds, but Pantz proved his superiority, decisively forcing the fight from the start.

For three rounds the boys set a rattling pace, but for the rest of the distance Pantz had it generally his own way. In the seventh Pantz landed a stiff right to the stomach, and Kelly claimed a foul which was not allowed. Kelly refused to continue, and the decision went to Pantz.

McDONALD'S FAST STRING.

Major Delmar's fastest mile to date has been 2:21; A. C. Schuyler's green mare, Mona Wilkes, trial 2:12½, has been one in 2:23¾, and Charles C. Lloyd's Chain Shot, 2:06½, has worked handily in 2:22. It looks like a great season for McDonald.

FITZ SAYS MUNROE HASN'T A CHANCE WITH BIG JEFF

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 7.—"What do I think of the big fight?" asked Fitzsimmons, as he lolled lazily on the porch of his villa at Rensonhurst to-day. "Just the same as I've always thought.

"Munroe has no more chance of whipping Jeff than McClellan has of throwing, although I will say he tries hard to"——

"Who, the Mayor?" asked the reporter, in astonishment.

"Who said the Mayor?" replied Fitzsimmons with a chuckle. "I'm talking of my donkey. See him over there? Here, Mac."

And sure enough, over the fence a donkey's head bobbed up in answer to the call.

"But as for Munroe," continued the battle-scarred ring veteran, "he will get what he deserves. Jeffries will let him stay a round, maybe two, perhaps three, but then"——

Fitzsimmons winked imitably. His cheeks quaked, his arms hung limp, his eyes showed white and he sank half-way to the floor. Better than words could tell he expressed in pantomime what would happen to the miner.

"But Jeffries may knock him out in a punch," suggested a listener.

A grin spread over the Cornishman's face. "O, no fear," he said. "It'll take longer than that for Jeffries to get square for that Butte affair. You know"—this with a confidential air—"those things you heard of didn't happen. Jeffries could have knocked him out, but he hadn't the heart. And Munroe didn't lay a glove on Jeff more than twice during the four rounds."

"Supposing Munroe should win, what—"

"Say, if Munroe licks Jeff, I'll guarantee to knock him out inside of four rounds or forfeit $5,000. I mean that."

And then Fitzsimmons dragged his lanky figure over to the fence, where he took it half Nelson on McClellan (the donkey) and the two were soon rolling over on the grass together.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons gazed at the spectacle, sighed and said:

"There he goes, spoiling another suit of clothes. And we're trying to save money, too."

LANKY BOB'S OPINION OF THE BIG BATTLE

MUNROE HASN'T A CHANCE WITH JEFFERIES.

JEFF MAY LET HIM STAY THREE ROUNDS.

JEFFRIES DIDN'T HAVE THE HEART TO HURT THE MINER IN THE BUTTTE BOUT.

IF MUNROE SHOULD WIN FITZ SAYS HE WILL KNOCK HIM OUT INSIDE OF FOUR ROUNDS OR FORFEIT $5,000.

FAST MORGAN HORSE IN TOWN

His blood enters into the grand lineage of Lou Dillon, 1:58¾. Major Delmar, 1:59¾, the only two minute trotters which yet have appeared, and it likewise crops out in such pacers as Dariel, 2:00¼, and John R. Gentry, 2:00¾.

For beauty and very tractable qualities they are unsurpassed. One which combines all these properties arrived in the city a few days ago, purchased by William Simpson, in Vermont, for a show horse.

He continues the strain of the two greatest descendants of old Black Hawk, Gen. Knox and Ethan Allen. The former was owned by Colonel Thomas Lang, of Vassalboro, Me., and added over a million dollars to the horse product of that state. Ethan Allen was owned by "Ned" Maynard, of this city at one time, and passed to the ownership of Governor Sprague, of Rhode Island, who sent him to his stock farm in Kansas. Gen. Knox died at The Fashion Farm, Trenton, N. J., the property of Henry N. Smith, of New York.

Now comes Simpson with a gelding having all the beauty and grace of the Allens and the the stalwart, harmonious structure of Gen. Knox, but this is not all. Simpson placed him in Geo. H. Sturtevant's hands, at his East Brookline street stable, who gave him a little work out on the speedway. "Now mind you this is a green horse, but he did an eighth in 18½ seconds which you know is a 2:04¼ mark," said Sturtevant. "He has heart, lungs, feet and legs finished up to perfection and I don't see why there is not a 2:04 or 2:00 trotter right here, and an unbred Morgan." "I know," said Sturtevant, "it takes 8 furlongs to make a mile, and the horse is away down at the further end of the course, and often it takes more than three trips to get it, but here is a green one who is showing as fast as the best, out at the tracks. When a horse steps at that rate they make a great patter about it. I am maintaining the same interest in the Morgan which such men as Tom Lang, "Ned" Maynard, Col. Henry S. Russell, "Ben" Wade, Wesley Balch, David Blanchard, R. H. Denney, Edward Bates, David Snow, and "Hod" Nelson have exhibited and am willing to put a little on such a representative as I have in charge.

COULDN'T PUT GRIM OUT

Special to the Boston American.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—Joe Grim, the perpetual motion Italian champion, stayed six rounds with Dave Holly at the National Athletic Club. Once again the human chopping block had a narrow escape from a knockout, but he smothered up and kept on until the effect of the blow had passed away.

This occurred in the fourth round, when Holly landed a terrific right-hand swing full on Grim's jaw and put down for the count. At times Grim fought back, but his blows, though they had sufficient force, fell harmlessly about Holly's shoulders because of the poor aim with which they were directed.

Until the fourth round the go was slow, then Dave cut loose and penetrated Grim's anatomy in many places. Until the final gong rang the colored fighter kept away hard, but he could not finish his man.

Amateur Games Wanted.

Laurels want games with any eleven or twelve-year-old team in the State at Wollaston Park. The famous young MacDonald brothers are the battery, with F. Macrae, Hy. V. McGinty, J. Jones, as E. Conner, 3b.; A. Sadler, If.; T. O'Mears, cf.; H. Rivings, rf., and Hall, Chandler and Macdonald, manager, No. 27 Franklin avenue, Wollaston.

Burton A. C., of Roxbury, want games with any sixteen-year-old team in the State, but would like best to A. C. preferred. "Ed" M. Keough, manager, 35 Shadd street, Roxbury.

Hemlocks, a crack nineteen-twenty-year-old club, who batting fest walloped the Dorchester Juniors last week, say they are ready through the BOSTON AMERICAN, to take on the Tufts College and Paris, Brothers of Jamaica Plain, Senators of Everett, or any other speedy semi-pro team. Address Hoddican, Manager, No. 20 Lowell street, Boston.

Arnaud school team is delighted, the manager writes the BOSTON AMERICAN. A protest sent to the BOSTON AMERICAN about the last game with Washington-Allston has brought the English lads to their emphatic senses, and they have another chance at the bouts that beat us. Arnaud will play Allston on the latter's grounds to win the game. Morgan will twirl for Arnaud.

Owing to the cancelling of a game with Stoneham this Saturday, R. F. D. wants a game away from home. Address Fred Shaw, Malden, No. 511 State street, South Boston.

City Points, one of the strongest 18-19-year-old teams in the State, trimmed the Lincolns 7 to 4.

The pairing of Dresser, Hasse, Kelly, McCarty and Ryan were the features of the Union, Jersey having 10 strike-outs to his credit.

Pemgregs, want games with 12-year-old teams; William Kelly, Manager, No. 487 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown.

Millmonts, of Roxbury, will play any 18-19-year-old semi-professional team in the State. Players: Murphy, p.; Rockwell, c.; H. Dow, 1b.; Hoag, captain, 2b.; Tetzler, ss.; Ryan, 3b.; Arnold, rf.; A. Williams, lf.; Flynn, cf.; D. Williams, sub. Address Candy, manager, No. 107 Bunker street, Roxbury.

Nonantum A. C., of Newton, want games with any strong semi-professional teams in the State for Saturdays available; John F. Keane, manager, No. 90 Bond street, Newton.

Hyde Park Juniors want games to beat from any 12 or 13-year-old teams of the State; address Hall Greene.

North Weymouths are out for the scalps of any sixteen-seventeen-year-old team in the State. Have won five games out of seven this year. They play the strong Forest Hills at North Weymouth next Saturday and a good game is looked for.

A. Van Ulm, former southpaw of the Boylston of Jamaica Plain, went his blind consistently against the pick of last year's pennant-winning League. His friends were pleased to hear the score was 10 to 6. Two hits, one of scratch variety, and fourteen strike-outs and Wolf's backstopping was a feature of the playing of the Glenwoods of Cambridge.

TUFTS CO-EDS PLAY TENNIS

Tufts co-ed tennis tournament is rapidly nearing an end, and the last round has begun, the winners of which play off for the championship of the "All Round Club."

The results of the games played of the first round are: Louisa Saunders, '04, beat Ella Bowker, '05, 6—0, 6—0; Dorothy Brown, '05, beat Gussanda Countway, '04, 6—2, 6—4; Bertha Bray, '04, beat Martha Steele, '05, 6—0, 6—0; Ethel Sturtevant, '07, beat Phebe Johnson, '05, 6—3, 6—4.

In the second round Alice Clarke, '04, beat Louisa Saunders, '04, 2—6, 6—1, 6—1; Dorothy Brown, '05, beat Gertrude Bartlett, '07, 6—2, 7—5, and Clara Parker, '04, beat Martie Crowell, '04, 3—6, 6—2, 6—2.

In the third round Clara Parker, '04, beat Bertha Bray, '04, 6—3, 6—3.

Notes of the Harness Horses.

John Young has arrived at Readville with the Allen Farm horses. The most of them are by Kremlin, 2:07½.

* * *

"Ed" Mills, who formerly ran the Enterprise Sales Stable in this city, and who managed Mat Painter, 1:59¼; Chehalis, 2:04½; Searchlight, 2:03¾, and several other fast horses, is now at Pleasanton, Cal., and is getting together a large stable to come over the Rockies next season.

* * *

A. H. Arnold, of Boston Corners, N. Y., has a fine stable which includes Lord Roberts, son of Sir Walter, 2:12¾, which the late J. A. Sayles, of Pawtucket, had at the head of his Bruce Manor farm.

* * *

Lord Roberts, son of Sir Walter, 2:07¾, and Nancy Hanks, 2:04, is in Jamie Turpenter's stable. This colt is now four years old and, up to now, has not timed in a race last year in 2:33¼, and a half in 1:05. It saved for next year he ought to have the large stakes for green horses at his mercy.

* * *

Claudia Hall, 2:04¾, by Direct Hal, is likely to be about the best thing in the line for all classes in the Maritime provinces. She was purchased by J. E. Comeau, of Spring Hill, N. S.

* * *

A stallion in New England does not have the opportunities which are to be had in Kentucky. Baron Wilkes, the premier of Hazelwood, is no exception, but his Kentucky-bred sons are getting more stake winners than those of any other horse.

* * *

Idolite, 2:09¼, is expected to set a mark of 2:06 this season in John Keller's hands. This is the horse which when owned by the late Frank Jones, of Portsmouth, N. H., in 1896, and then only three years old, Tom Marsh, trainer, won $16,000, the greatest money he ever won.

* * *

John F. Mills, of Somerville, has sent a three-year-old colt by Chehalis, 2:04¾, dam by Onward, 2:25¼, and several other fast horses, to Dr. O'Neil, of Lexington. This colt can show a 2:20 clip, and Mr. Mills says he is another Royal Onward for speed.

* * *

Dick Wilson, who trained at Mystic Park for a number of years, and is now located at Indianapolis, Ind., writes to a friend in Medford: "I have a green trotter, Miss Jay, by Ashland Wilkes, which is a sure likely candidate for the 2:12 list. Mr. Snider than John Taylor, 2:10¼, was last year, Red News, by Dictionary, will be the real thing in the Chamber of Commerce Stake.

CAPE MAY CUP IS NOT TO BE FOUND

LONDON, June 7.—According to the Daily Express the case of the missing Cape May Cup, was by His Majesty's yacht the Britannia, promises to become famous. Diligent search for the trophy has been made at Windsor Castle. No trace of the cup, however, can be found.

A careful record is kept of all the items of furniture, silver and gold ornaments at the castle, but the only trophy there is His Majesty's Ascot gold cup, which Dr. Simmon won for the King when Prince of Wales in 1897. The inspector at the castle believes that such a trophy would never have been sent to Windsor at all, but would have been kept at Sandringham with His Majesty's other trophies, which are very numerous, including many yachting and racing cups and prizes won at agricultural shows. A careful search is now to be made for the missing cup at Sandringham.

The Cape May Cup, which was years ago won by His Majesty's yacht the Britannia, was challenged for this year by H. Mortimer Plant, of the Larchmont Yacht Club, owner of the schooner yacht Ingomar. As the defender was not fit to contest for the trophy, the Ingomar won the cup by default.

CARDINALS NOT SATISFIED.

NEW YORK, June 7.—In the final round of the doubles in the tourney of the New York Tennis Club Alexander and Little, of Princeton, defeated W. P. Blagden, of Harvard, and C. H. Watson, Jr., of Orange, 6—0, 6—2, 6—1.

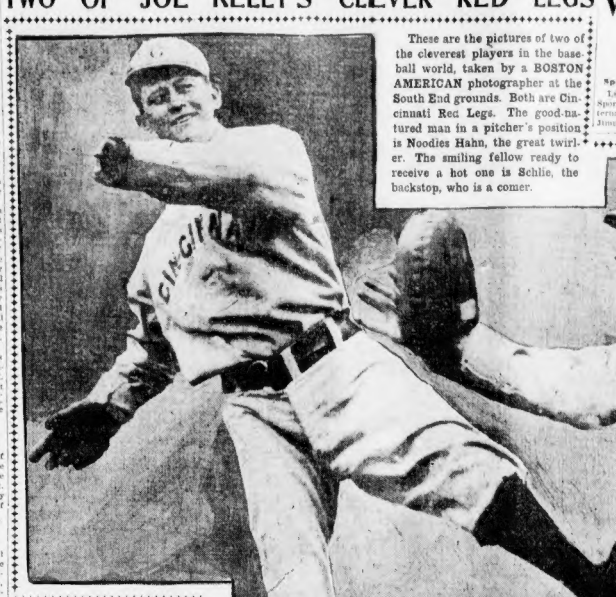
TWO OF JOE KELLY'S CLEVER RED LEGS



These are the pictures of two of the cleverest players in the baseball world, taken by a BOSTON AMERICAN photographer at the South End grounds. Both are Cincinnati Red Legs. The good-natured man in a pitcher's position is Noodles Hahn, the great twirler. The smiling fellow ready to receive a hot one is Schlie, the backstop, who is a comer.

WALSH DRAWS WITH STANLEY

Special Cable to Boston American.

LONDON, June 7.—At the National Sporting Club there was a well fought international boxing contest for $1,500 Jimmy Walsh of Boston and "Digger" Stanley of England boxed fifteen rounds at 112 pounds to a draw.

Despite the American's failure a month ago against the same opponent he was favorite, and much money was bet on him four to five.

The fight commenced at a very wild pace, with the Englishman much fresher than his opponent. He took a slight lead for the first half dozen rounds, but as Bostonian improved, and of the eleventh round scored quicker than Stanley.

In the twelfth round Walsh's rib punishing had great effect on the Englishman. Thereforth the exchanges were about even and at the finish the officials disagreed. The referee declared it a draw.

MORE LIFE IN HARVARD 'VARSITY

Special to the Sunday American.

HARVARD CREW QUARTERS, RED BOAT, Conn., June 7.—The Harvard varsity crews were out on the Thames early this morning. The first crew covered two half-mile stretches down river alone, the stroke being between 35 and 36.

There was some rushing in the boat, but there was a great deal more life in the work. Coming back to quarters the crew passed a mile at a stroke over 36, and the boat traveled a great deal better than it has for some time.

It is expected that the crews will be sent over the course this evening for a time row, the freshman crew pacing the varsity from the start to the Naval station, and the second varsity pacing from there to the finish line at the bridge.

The freshmen were not sent out this morning, but the four-oar had a slow paddle and a few sprints. The crew physicians, Dr. Bowitt, arrived at quarters last evening and this morning gave all the men a thorough physical examination. He reported all in excellent condition.

BIKERS READY FOR BIG RACE

With a dry track tonight at Charles River Park one of the big races of the season will take place.

The event is an hour race with the best pace followers in the game behind the speedy small motors. There will be a field of seven riders in the race and the track would hardly allow of any additional entries.

Patsey Keegan, the little Lowell flyer, is the latest to forward his intention of competing and he will find it hard work figuring with such an array of the talent as Hugh MacLean, Jimmie Moran, Basil De Guichard, Benny Maurice, Louis Mettling and Will Ritson.

Albert Champion and Sammy Sulkins were to be starters, but the former, because of an abscess on his leg, cannot get on his wheel, and Sulkins was unable to secure pace.

All the motormen will participate in the five-mile motor race and fast time is looked for. The amateurs are out in force for the mile handicap, with the California wonder, Burton Downing, leading the bunch.

BIRMINGHAM LAD'S DEFI.

"Billy" Smith, a Birmingham, Eng., bantam, is out with a challenge to any 105 pound man in the business through the BOSTON AMERICAN. Smith has recently arrived in Boston from England, and he fought Mike Kirke, the other night, at Portland, Me.

Although there was some question as to who had the better of the mill the decision was given to Kirke.

O'NEIL AFTER CARTER.

Le Fallon O'Neil, of the West End, is willing to fight Young Carter before any club around the city that wants to put them on, for fun, marbles, or money at any weight.

COLUMBIA CREWS OUT.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 7.—Despite the intense heat, Coach Goodwin sent all the Columbia crews for hard spins on the Hudson. The varsity eight is showing improved form, and all the oarsmen are in better condition than they were in New York.

BOXERS DIDN'T APPEAR.

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., June 7.—There wasn't any boxing show as advertised here last night for the very excellent reason that Messrs. Hamilton and Lowery failed to materialize.

STINSON IN LONG RACE.

Stinson will take Leander's place in the hour motor-paced bike race at Charles River Park to-morrow night.

ASHLEY AND HILL DRAW.

SOUTH BERWICK, Me., June 7.—After fifteen rounds of lively fight, the bout between Billy Hill, of Boston, and Guy Ashley, of Fall River, was decided a draw.

CROWD MOBS THE UMPIRE

One of the most exciting contests ever played on Worcester Oval was played yesterday between Holy Cross and Worcester, leaders in the Connecticut League. The result was 6 to 4, but the Worcester team won only by bunching hits in the final inning. Umpire Patsy Dowd was nearly mobbed by the crowd of Holy Cross sympathizers who took exception to his decisions, and police protection was necessary to avert trouble.

JEFF MAY NOT BE READY FOR BATTLE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Rumors are current to the effect that Champion James Jeffries desires to have the date of his battle with Miner Munroe postponed from June 17 to some later date.

A friend of Jeffries has arrived from Harbin Springs, where the champion has been doing his training, and immediately communicated with Manager Coffroth of the Yosemite Club. He said that Jeffries realized that he had started training too late, and the time was too short for the big fellow to get in such as he desired.

Manager Coffroth refused to agree to change of program, and he is doing his best to get into communication with Harbin Springs in order to express his views.

Even Munroe was approached and his consent asked for a delay in the fighting date, but Jeffries's emissary met with little success.

Billy Roche, who is looking after Munroe's interests, did not care to take any stand in the matter but wired Harry Pollok the request.

Manager Coffroth says: "I hardly believe that Jeffries wants the date of the fight changed. This talk of his wanting more time to get into condition may have been a desire expressed to some personal friend of his training quarters and has leaked out. He is perfectly aware that I must pull off the battle some time this month and I understand that he does not want any trouble for me in my management.

"There is no way of reaching Harbin Springs to get into telegraphic communication with Jeffries, so that the story emenating from his headquarters cannot be substantiated.

"That the champion wants all the time he can get is generally known, as his trip East did not leave him in any too good physical condition and he had considerable weight to take off in a short space of time.

DATE FOR BIG GAMES.

LONDON, June 7.—According to the Oxford-Cambridge athletic officials, the games with Yale and Harvard will be held at the Queen's Club Grounds the third week in July. The King is expected to be present.

TENNEY'S MEN OUT FOR HARD PRACTISE

That the Boston Nationals are going to do their best to win to-day's game was shown by their willingness to practise this morning. Usually there is an apathetic air about morning baseball practise that does not convince one that the players really practise of their own free will. These last two extra inning games that the Nationals lost have spurred the Hub men. Kelley and his band of swatters do not alarm them in the least, and to-day, with PiPTenger in the box they will endeavor to retrive the loss of yesterday.

Everything was breaking smoothly for Buck's braves up at the grounds to-day and all the boys hope for is good weather. Tommy Needham will do the receiving honors.

All Buckenberger desires is that the men improve a little in their work with the willow, and if this is done he feels confident that Boston will make a good showing in the league. Tenney is also much pleased with the work of the team of late, but he feels the same way that Buck does and hopes to see a marked improvement in stick work.

THOSE SCRAPPY REDS

Those scrappy Reds are not dead in love with the Hub, according to their own statement. Historical and classical Boston has no charms for this bunch of ball players. First of all, they object to the wind that plays havoc up and down their backs when they're on the diamond. Again, they say, the National park in this town is not awful simple, but simply awful. They declare to a man that the grounds are the worst ever, and, in fact, the poorest it has been their fortune to wage battle on this season.

They Object to the roughness of the diamond. They say it is almost impossible to field perfectly on the ground it is so uneven. Balls, which otherwise might be handled, swerve off to other territory, so they say.

And Then the Crowds.

Also, the crowds that attend the National park do not fascinate them. They aver that the fans that come to the park are even more frigid than the wrecking East wind. Then again, it is not nice for a team, which has played to record-breaking crowds, like that which attended last Saturday's game with the Giants, to play to such a meagre attendance that huddles in the South End grounds.

Fine for the Reds. They have their eyesight all right and they have their never flickering lamps on the moment. If they do not win it by fair means, so they say, they will have to swoop down upon the unsuspecting Giants, not unlike Jack in the Giant Killer fable, and steal the bunting while the big fellows are not looking.

It is a curious fact, and probably not duplicated in the country, that eight of the Reds are Cincinnati voters. Out of both Boston teams, there is only one of them that voted in Boston, Tenney.

Porktown Citizens.

This is not true of the Reds, nevertheless. It is the most representative team in the business, so fans say that knows. Huggins, Schlie, Suttoff and Woodruff were born and raised in Cincinnati and have been in the city. Four others cast their ballots in the "Cin" city. They are Pelty, Hahn, Seymour and Donlin. Peitz is one of the most prominent political workers in the city. He is a delegate in every State convention and is a powerful factor in the Republican party.

Business Manager Bancroft said that it has been his idea for years to have every club of the baseball league represented by purely local players, fellows raised in the city which they represent on the diamond. This would be a very fine scheme, but not a practical one.

Notes Between Innings.

Red was the prevailing color yesterday.

* * *

The game was one of the longest drawn out matches of the season.

* * *

While the tenth inning was being finished at the National park, eight innings of the Boston-Detroit game, played hundreds of miles away, was tabulated on the score-board.

* * *

Both Wilhelm and Elliott looked like amateurs. They didn't seem to be able to put the sphere over the plate where they wanted.

* * *

It was the third extra inning game in three days. In fact, every contest since the Bostons have come home has been an extra inning affair.

* * *

Geier was the limit at third. He juggled balls as if they were too hot to be handled. It would have been better, so the fans said, if Delehanty had been left there.

* * *

Eleven errors in one battle is a pretty bad showing for some exponents of the national game. The error columns were working overtime.

* * *

Errors were made on balls which school boys would have set up with glee.

* * *

The Reds showed hardly championship form yesterday. Probably it was the chilly weather, but anyhow they did not look like a team touted to high demand honors.

* * *

That little fellow, Huggins, who is a newcomer, certainly plays well at second. He was able to cope with any kind of a smash that came his way.

* * *

* * *

An aged fan, who once was an actor, said: "The game was a comedy of errors." Quite apropos!

* * *

Wilhelm looked like the money until the third inning, when the Reds made him look like a novice. Fisher, who relieved him, did not fare much better.

CRACK YACHTS TO RACE 331 MILES

There is ready a list of twenty-six entries in the ocean race that will be started July 6 by the Eastern Yacht Club to race from New York to Marblehead. The yachts will cover a distance of 331 miles, and, while it will be an along the coast affair, it will afford the yachtsmen a chance to show their ability in rough seas and possibly heavy weather. That much interest has been shown by New York yachtsmen will be proven by the appended list of entries.

At 3 o'clock on the afternoon of July 6, the race will start. The starting line will be off Rockaway Inlet. Boats must be identified passing Nantucket Shoals lightship, and also they must display a signal while passing Highland Light on Cape Cod. If a yacht finishes in the night it must identify itself by hailing the Eastern Yacht Club committee boat, which will be stationed off Marblehead.

The following are the entries to date:

Schooners.

Chanticleer, George N. Wells, Eastern Yacht Club.
Red Skin III., J. L. Sturtevant, Boston Yacht Club.
Hope Leslie, Commodore Minot, Eastern Yacht Club.
Indra, F. O. Eaton, Eastern Yacht Club.
Undercliffe, F. Lewis Clark, Eastern Yacht Club.
Sachem, ex-Commodore F. T. Adams, Larchmont Yacht Club.
Magnolia, Vice-Commodore E. P. Boynton Boston Yacht Club.
Gorilla, Joseph Battles, Corinthian Yacht Club.

Sloops.

Talitie, Commodore Walter Bean, Knickerbocker Yacht Club.
Goldenrod, G. E. Bruce, Boston Yacht Club.
Stiyi, G. G. Williams, New York Yacht Club.

ATHLETES TO SET SAIL ON JULY 6

The Harvard-Yale track athletes who are to meet the track teams of the English universities of Oxford and Cambridge in London this Summer will sail from New York on July 6.

This is the announcement which has been made to members of the Harvard track team by the management in charge of the arrangements for the trip. This date was decided upon at a meeting held in Providence, when the whole matter in all its details was talked over by the managers and captains of the two teams of Yale and Harvard.

Among other things decided was the make-up of the two teams. There will be no team competition in either college, as was first planned, but it is believed that the championship material in each university is so well known that the best makeup may be obtained by conferences between the two captains.

Once the team has been made up individual training will begin at once, with a final training of the entire team in some place yet to be selected, probably Travers Island, New York.

For Harvard the trainer who will be in full charge of affairs will be John Graham. The latter has completely recovered his health again, and when seen by a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN at his home in Allston he said:

"The report published yesterday in the AMERICAN in regard to my returning to Harvard as track coach is true, I am happy to say. I will direct the training of the Harvard men from now on, and will accompany them across the pond to the meet. There is some hard work to be done from now on, and the training of the men in the different events will be severe. We hope to clean them up over there in the big meet."

MISS LYLA BUTLER.

HERE are four more Boston girls, who, it is evident from their photographs, are well qualified to go before the great jury of AMERICAN readers that is to decide the interesting question: "Who Is the Prettiest Girl in Boston?" Interest in this competition is growing apace, and photographs of beautiful young women of this city are coming in rapidly. They will be published from time to time for the delectation of the readers of the AMERICAN. All the charming Boston girls who feel that their claims to the foremost place in the contest ought to be recognized should send their photographs to the AMERICAN at once, so that the friendly and discriminating jury may get an early opportunity to pass upon their pretty features.

THE STEPMOTHER;

OR, TWO LITTLE SAILOR BOYS.

ADAPTED FROM WALTER HOWARD'S PLAY, "TWO LITTLE SAILOR BOYS."

COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY AMERICAN-JOURNAL-EXAMINER.

CHAPTER IV.

"If There Is Truth in Woman."

"Cyril, how dare you?"

"I didn't." The boy returned her glance with grave face, but roguishly dancing eyes. "It was Noel. Kiss her again, Noel. I'm sure she doesn't mind. Do you, Milly?"

"Certainly I mind, but I couldn't help it." The trio laughed at Milly's lame excuse. "You didn't try," pursued the merciless little small brother. "Did she, Noel?"

"If Noel answers me, he shall never kiss me again."

"I will say anything rather than let that happen."

"Very well, then." The boy stood painfully erect upon the piazza step and endeavored to make his tone judicial.

"You may run indoors and hide your blushes, Milly, and I will remain and interview Captain Tregarthen as to his intentions. If I find him in all respects available I may consent to have him as a brother-in-law. I may, I say, but that is all. I promise."

"Don't be too hard on him, Cyril." Milly pleaded tearfully, "will you?" With the flutter of cloud-like white draperies and a merry laugh she disappeared.

The man and boy surveyed each other. Captain Tregarthen, stood expectant, trying to maintain his gravity. The youngster in white flannels placed his hands on his hips.

"Well?" said Cyril.

"Well?" Noel Tregarthen imitated tone and attitude.

"Has the prisoner anything to say as to why sentence should not be passed upon him?"

"Nothing. I plead guilty."

Cyril rose from his rather hat into the air and sought it grotesquely with his foot. This performed to his satisfaction he gravely regarded the young captain.

"Very well, sir. You are forgiven on condition that you do it again as often as possible.

Captain Tregarthen saluted.

"The Admiral!" Cyril looked. "Ho! ho! The Admiral's a myth, the Admiral Milly?"

A tall young man in naval uniform entered Admiral Bligh's grounds through the hospitably opened gate. His powerful, figure came slowly up the path in an indolent, swinging gait. As he approached Cyril recognized the handsome, reckless face, the narrow, cold, gray eyes, set close together of Lieutenant Richard Redstone, U. S. N.

"Hello, Mr. Redstone." The lad advanced cordially. "Glad to see you back again."

The little disturbed at this moment, I should say," Cyril laughed.

"The truth is that she has gone inside to hide her blushes."

"Her blushes?" Redstone looked frowning interrogation.

"Yes, blushes fitting for such an occasion. But I forget. You are not in the secret yet, are you?"

"Not that I am aware of."

The boy moved closer, and, smiling and dimpling, placed his hand at the side of his mouth and said in a loud whisper

"Then I'll be the first to tell you. Milly 's engaged."

"What!"

Lieutenant Redstone rose from the settee into which he had thrown himself, and irritably faced the mischievous boy.

"Engaged, I said," repeated Cyril Grey. Forming a trumpet of his hands he yelled through them: "Are you deaf? She's going to marry Captain Tregarthen."

"Why should you prevent it?" he asked. "Why should any man try to prevent another man's marrying the girl he love——"

"Great Cupid! And do you love Milly, too?"

"Love her?" The blaze flamed up again in Redstone's face. "Aye, lad, with all my soul. I love her too well to stand by and see a man like Noel Tregarthen win her before my eyes."

He paced the gravel drive like a man distraught. He raised his clenched hands above his head as though defying heaven.

"By the God above, I swear she shall never be Noel Tregarthen's wife."

Boy and man turned, white faced and startled, as a low, manly voice fell upon their ears.

"Of whom are you speaking, Redstone?" it said.

Lieutenant Redstone answered with some abatement of his heated tone.

"Of Mildred Grey."

Noel Tregarthen turned courteously to the astonished boy.

"Cyril, will you please leave us for a moment?"

"Very, well, Noel." The boy turned when he reached the steps and gave a saucy glance at the frowning men.

"Suppose you let me arbitrate," he said. "I am not a girl with all the fellows in the U. S. N. in love with her, I know my mind. I know which of you I would rather have for a brother-in-law, and it isn't Mr. Redstone."

He alone together the men faced each other, a deep anger in their eyes.

Noel Tregarthen's arms folded upon his breast and there was the cold ring of steel in his voice.

"Now, sir! Tell me by what right you speak as you did just now? Let me tell you first that Mildred Grey is my promised wife."

"She's not your wife yet."

"She will be, please God, before many weeks have passed."

"There's many a slip twixt the cup and the lip."

"But there'll be no slip this time."

"You cursed fortune hunter!"

"Have a care, Dick Redstone!"

Why should I?" Redstone's courage was returning. He was as one dumb with fear. "We're speaking here as man to man, aren't we?"

I forbid you mention Mildred Grey's name in my presence again."

"You forbid? Yes! And I shall obey you, of course, Noel Tregarthen, I now own you a double grudge. Seven months ago we were of equal rank, but I was before you on the list for promotion. You stole my place by lying evidence."

"Lieutenant Redstone, if your inquiry was true. You know it. You were drunk at your post."

The men gazed at each other warily, silently, in deadly anger.

"I repeat it," said Tregarthen. "Drunk while in charge of the navigation of the ship."

"And suppose I was, it was on your evidence that I was convicted."

"Had I told all I knew you would not only have allowed your promotion but would have been dismissed from the service."

A curse deep in his throat was Redstone's only answer. Again they stood silently measuring each other as animals preparing for a spring.

"You think I will stand idly by and see you win the woman I love for your wife?"

"She would never have married you."

"She would have had you not come between us. You are afraid to let me go to her now and tell my story as you have told yours, and let her choose between us. Come, you are afraid!"

"Go then, and if I hear her say with her own lips she loves you, I will give her back her promise and never reproach you or her."

Redstone turned toward the house.

"You shall hear those words yet, I promise you."

"They must come from her own lips."

"They shall, and from her heart, too."

As Redstone entered the house his superior officer looked after him with paindrawn face and anxious eyes.

"Never!" he said. "If there's truth in woman, I've read it in my sweetheart's eyes."

Pretty Girls of Boston! SEND IN YOUR PHOTOGRAPHS

THE BOSTON AMERICAN has been asked by numerous correspondents to name the prettiest girl in Boston. The question is herewith passed along to the readers of the AMERICAN for them to decide. A half hours' walk on any of the leading streets of our city, in the Common, the Public Garden, the Parks, Commonwealth avenue and in the adjacent suburbs, discloses the fact that there are more pretty young women and girls to be found in and about Boston than in any other city in the United States.

So that the readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN may form themselves into a great jury to decide the question, we request that photographs, properly authenticated, be sent to the BEAUTY EDITOR, BOSTON AMERICAN Office, 80 and 82 Summer Street.

Girls, Don't Lend Money to Men.

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Young men have a bad habit of borrowing small sums of money from their sisters and girl friends. Their excuse is that a girl has fewer ways of spending her money than they, and so is more apt to have a supply on hand.

It is bad enough for a man to borrow money from a girl, but when he conveniently forgets to repay the loan it is infinitely worse.

No girl will dun a man for the small amounts he borrows, and yet when you lend 25 cents here and 10 cents there it soon grows to be quite a sum.

To every girl who earns her own living, even the small sum of 10 cents is an important item. If she does not have to spend it she should save it.

The man who borrows money from a girl in order that he may buy a package of cigarettes is contemptible.

If the girl does not earn her own living then still less has he a right to ask her for what is not hers to give.

No girl need feel mean in refusing to lend a man money. Every cent that she is not obliged to spend on her living or clothes should be put away in case of emergency.

If her father has not enough money to make her independent and she remains single, she should try and save enough to enable her to live comfortably when she can no longer work.

She does not want to rely on her relations or outside charity in her old age, and the only way to avoid it is by saving every week a little of the money she earns.

If she does marry it will be well for her if she has a little money of her own, so as not to be absolutely dependent on her husband.

If young men would remember that every time they borrow even the smallest amount from a girl they are decreasing her earnings, I think they would not be inconsiderate enough to ask it of her. And it would be well if the girls would realize that these borrowers are not the best kind of men friends to cultivate.

A manly man would scorn to borrow from a girl. It is only the lazy spendthrift who sponges on women.

The salaries paid to women are not nearly as large as those paid to men, and when a strong, able-bodied young man turns to a girl and borrows money from her he is degrading himself. The mere fact that the girl has money and he has none should make him sit up and think.

Beauty of Expression.

It is often the plain men and women who inspire the deepest and most lasting affection, and this is probably due to the fact that their play and power of facial expression not only atone for their lack of regular beauty, but reveal such an attractive side that no more charm is needed to captivate a lover.

A hundred pleading letters, dozens of entreating messages, will leave a heart unmoved, whereas one pathetic, yearning look from a pair of soulful eyes will break down the barrier that was, and may be threatening to divide two lives.

A scornful, imperceptible curl of a pretty lip, interrupted flash of muffin, or a vindictive glance from bright eyes, will throw a new and dispiriting light upon the character of a man or woman.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Watch Not Gone, but Going.

Brown—Well, was it gone?

Smith—No; but is was going.—New Yorker.

Dress Rigidly Looked After in France

BY LADY HENRY SOMERSET.

COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY AMERICAN-JOURNAL EXAMINER.

LONDON, June 7.

There are two women, however, who have obtained Government permits to dress habitually as men. One was the late Rosa Bonheur, who alleged that she could not sketch freely or move about the country when hampered by feminine dress, and the other is Mme. Dieu Lafoy, whose archaeological researches are only equaled by those of her celebrated husband.

Mme. Dieu Lafoy attained to world-wide fame when she made the discovery of the Palace and Necropolis at Artaxerxes at Susa.

Her studies in Oriental art have been unique. She devoted fifteen years to solving the problem from whence the knowledge of ancient Oriental art had sprung, and she maintained that it had not originated in Arabia, as was usually supposed.

She has travelled through Spain, Algeria, Morocco and Egypt, tracing its history step by step; and finally from Babylon she turned back again across the Straits of Gibraltar to Granada, having conclusively proved that from that ancient city the school which had so manifestly influenced the world had originated.

In accomplishing the hard and difficult task, she determined when in Persia to abandon woman's dress and to be as free and as unhampered as her husband. So she cut her hair, donned a suit of man's clothes and decided that in that far-off land it did not matter what she looked or how she worked.

At the end of five years, on her return to Paris, she settled that it would be impossible for her to resume woman's dress, and she therefore filed a formal petition for leave to continue to wear man's attire.

It is difficult to believe that the tall man with the beard, who is introduced as Professor Dieu Lafoy, is the husband of the refined looking person in man's dress, with delicate hands and gentle face, who bears his name.

The professor and his wife work together for many hours each day, and rising early in the morning they live a life of unbroken regularity and are thus able to give to the world the [illegible] of their indefatigable labors

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have kept company with a gentleman the same age as myself for the past three years. He tells me he loves me, and I know that I love him, too. Every once in a while he acts very queer. He says he cannot see me for a long while and then again he wants to see me every second evening.

Please tell me what kind of a gentleman you think he is, with such a funny nature.

L. M.

HE seems very changeable. It is simply a question o whether or not you care enough for him to put up with his variable ways. He may have some good reason for his peculiarities.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man, eighteen years old, and am deeply in love with a young lady who is two years my senior. She calls me "the kid," and tells her girl friends she only goes with me to keep her company. How is the best way to find out if she loves me, as I dearly love her.

H. W.

Boston.

I SHOULD have a talk with her, and if she is merely trifling with your affections, have nothing to do with her. You are young and will meet a great many girls in the next few years, and your ideas will no doubt change.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

About one year ago I got acquainted with a young man about twenty-seven years old. I am twenty-three. We kept company about three months. He seemed to think a lot of me. I learned to love him very dearly, and everything was going along pleasantly when all at once he left off coming to see me. I wrote and asked what the trouble was, but he did not answer. He told a friend of his that I made some talk about him, which was not so. At first he would not look at me, but now he smiles at me when we meet each other. I still think he is much of him. Now, will you kindly tell me what I should do and how I can win him back? CORA BELLE.

Boston.

I SHOULD let matters rest as they are. If he loves you truly he will come back to you. He should at least have given you a chance to explain before believing what others told him. Do not let him see that you are anxious to have the trouble cleared up.

Chemise Berthas.

PRETTY and practicable idea is a detachable bertha or ruche for the chemise or underwaist. These are pattened after the last pads of the moment, and when one is pinned over the chemise this last may be of the plainest slip description. Ribbon rosettes or bows finish the detachable bertha.

Egyptian Tissue.

EGYPTIAN tissue has a delightfully mysterious and oriental sound, and seems as if it ought to be applied to some one of those diaphanous silken fabrics worn by the Eastern slaves. But in reality it is a crisp, cool-looking linen, in either tan or pink, with white cordlike stripes at quarter of an inch intervals.

Useful Suggestions.

IN washing Summer goods it is best to know just what to use to prevent different colors from fading.

A handful of salt will set blue.

Oxgall will keep the color in gray or brown.

For washing tan, brown or linen color haywater is good. You make it by pouring boiling water over hay.

Tea Biscuit Receipe.

TWO teacupfuls flour, one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt; mix together and sift. Melt a tablespoonful of butter and add it to two-thirds cupful of cold milk; flatten dough with hands and cut with biscuit cutter; bake in hot oven until a delicate brown —about fifteen minutes. This is a very good recipe when one is in a hurry, and one that cannot fail to turn out well.

Had Coffin Ready for Her.

"My gracious! What a crush!" gasped the shopper; "I'm nearly dead."

"Permit me, madame," said the floorwalker, politely, "to call your attention to the undertaking department in the basement."—Philadelphia Ledger.

What Civilized People Are.

"What do you understand by the term 'civilized people?'"

"'Civilized people,' answered the blunt barbarian, 'are those who have been lucky enough to survive after being beaten by a superior power.'"—Washington Star.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN.

Girl's Frock.

While the principal swing of the moment has to do with wash frocks, it is the economical mother who has brought material at bargain prices and is now ready to make the most of them. Gingham is the favorite, but it is not confined to be made up. Last year's linen gown of mother's that may be made over to do duty for the schoolgirl. A box-plaited dress as is shown here will afford a good model to be used. The style is unquestionably the most becoming with the straight yoke and the plaits that fall from the shoulders and lose fullness. If made without the yoke facing the popular Norfolk dress is the result. The fulness in the skirt is supplied to a double box-plait under the arm, or rather, from the waist, as that is where the pleats begin. This insures a full round skirt which is decidedly pretty. The round yoke may be cut with a deep facing to take a belt, very effective in good stout gingham, which, in the way are very inexpensive and add wonderfully to the appearance of a dark dress. The collar may be either square or round shape. If a mother wants to make two dresses, the model provided for distinct styles, using the Norfolk collar for one and the square collar with dress, as illustrated.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN will mail a pattern of the above on receipt of 10 cents. Please never send stamps. Be sure to give correct number and name of pattern. Address HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN DEPT., P. O. Box 256, Boston, Mass.

SWEAT SHOP GOODS DEAR IN LONG RUN

—MISS CLIFFORD

WOMEN DELEGATES SAY THEY ARE POORLY MADE AND MENACE HEALTH.

MISS FRANCES CLIFFORD. MISS AGNES KENNEDY.

MISS T. ZWERLING. MISS B. SOMER.

ONLY 4 WOMEN DELEGATES AT CONVENTION.

"Almost every woman in the world can help some other woman," said Miss Frances Clifford, of Peekskill, who is attending the convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, to the BOSTON AMERICAN today, "and especially can women do very much for us. Upon our own sex depends the success of union made goods.

"Union made goods mean more money for the workers, better hours, good sanitary conditions, a financial independence that gives physical and social freedom."

Miss Clifford is the secretary of the union in Peekskill and is accompanied by Miss Agnes Kennedy, the president of the Peekskill union. Both are employed in the manufacture of underwear.

Label Goods Not Dearer.

"There is one idea that is not true about union made goods," continued Miss Clifford. "Lots of women think the label garment will cost them a dollar or two more. In the making of underwear, this is not a fact.

"There are about 200 girls in our factory and they all earn good pay," said Miss Kennedy, president of the Peekskill union.

"What we want at this convention is to awaken public interest so that women will recognize the value of the union label and ask for it when they make purchases. This will help do away with the sweatshop business, which is a menace to our prosperity and is a terrible evil. It hurts the people who engage in it. They are poorly paid, are huddled together like cattle and work dimply and live cheaply.

"In our factory the inspector makes a health visit once a month at least, and the pride of the managers is to keep the place in a healthful condition. The old president of our concern used to say his girls dressed better than his wife did.

Cheap Goods No Bargain.

"They do get good wages," continued Miss Kennedy, "and they are nice girls. Many of them are graduates of the public and high schools and have pleasant and refined homes. We can keep up this standard of workers forever if women will insist upon union label goods.

"Do these pleasant circumstances induce her to remain at work after she is married?" asked the AMERICAN reporter.

"Indeed they don't," responded the Peekskill young woman. "We have very few married women in our factory. Our town is not like Danbury, Ct. There a woman gets married in the evening and goes back to her work the next morning.

"I believe," interjected Miss Clifford, "that it makes a man shiftless and lazy for his wife to work. He feels that three meals will be forthcoming somehow and if the wife will provide them there is no use for him to bother.

"Married women at work in a factory hurt others, too. If they have to support the house they are terribly grasping and if they just want a little spending money they don't care what they do to the price of the job is, they will take it for what they can get.

"Unions are making women business like and broad minded, and the best trade conditions of the world will be realized," said Miss Kennedy, again taking up the discussion, "when all women workers belong to unions and all women customers remember this fact and demand the product of organized labor.

Strong in the South.

"The colored bartenders and waiters are the mainstay of the craft in the South. They man all the principal hotels, and are first-class workmen. Our trade union is to put up the bars against this vast army of 100,000 craftsmen.

"Right here in Boston the membership of the Colored Waiters' Union has dropped from 100 to 100 since this resolution was passed. We are unable to see how the Southern white brother can consistently assist the colored union man in the North to pay his per capita tax to support them in keeping down the black laborer in the South."

MORE FIRMS USE LABEL.

At the meeting of the Allied Printing Trades Council, held last night, new delegates were admitted from Newspaper Writers' Union, Stampers' Union, 45, and the Electrotypers' Union. Four applications were received for the use of the label of the council, and granted.

Business Agent Daniel J. McDonald stated that he had visited several large department houses and a trading stamp firm in relation to having the label placed on their printing, and that they had promised to use it. He further reported that a special committee had attended the hearing of the School Committee on the matter of the contract for the printing of the primary school books by the municipal printing plant, the Allied Printing Trades Council label to be attached.

BRICKLAYERS PROTEST.

The members of Bricklayers' No. 3 have issued a protest against the American Federation granting a charter to the lime pointers, who are now members of the Knights of Labor. It is alleged by the international organization that it is a branch of the bricklaying industry and members working at it should receive the standard wages.

MORE PAINTERS RETURN.

Seventeen more union painters who went out on strike for an increase of 50 cents per day returned to work to-day, their employer having signed the new scale and working agreement with the union.

JOHN McNEIL RE-ELECTED.

The recent election of officers of the Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Shipbuilders of America, which was decided by a referendum vote, has resulted in the re-election of John McNeil as president and J. Gilthorpe, secretary, both of Kansas City, Kan., the headquarters of the organization.

OUTSIDE BOARD NOW.

Beginning to-day the non-union men engaged by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad to take the places of the striking freight handlers in New York and other places along the line will have to get their board and lodging at their own homes, and will no longer be fed and housed by the company at the depots.

PROTEST OUTSIDE BAND.

Boston Musicians' Protective Association, Local No. 9, passed resolutions protesting against the action of the committee on music for the Boston School Regiment parade on Friday, May 27, in engaging a military band outside the city.

With a membership of over 1,200, comprising many military bands, the resolutions stated that it would seem unnecessary to pursue such a course. The association will earnestly protest against such action in the future through the following committee: E. A. Goodwin, E. Woodworth Masters and C. C. Samuels.

LABOR NOTES.

Amalgamated Meat Cutters' Union will hold a smoke talk concert at Labor Temple, 2d street. Among the speakers will be Frank K. Foster, Dennis D. Driscoll, James R. Crosier, Frank W. McCarthy, Henry Abrahams and Joseph Quinn.

The big new downtown Engineers Union will be officially instituted as a local of the International Union of Steam Engineers to-night at 995 Washington street. The charter list of the new union is 264 and starts on its career with 200 members.

The Boston Single Tax Society will hold an open air meeting at Boston Common to-night at Central square, East Boston, Tuesday night. Speeches will be made on both sides of the single tax problem and the land question.

LABOR MEETINGS TO-NIGHT.

Hotel Lenox, when the Servia Club, composed of the wives and sweethearts of the Arcadians, held its annual dinner. The dinner was a charmingly appointed affair and was marked for the pretty women and the beautiful gowns.

Mrs. Jesse Ellis, president of the society looked charming in a gray chiffon gown, trimmed with lace panels and a three-quarter coat of white broad cloth. She received the guests as they arrived and dispensed the hospitality of the club. Among those present were Mrs. Frank Boardman Hall, Mrs. William Hickborn and other members.

Mrs. Ellis was reelected president, the other officers chosen were: Vice president, Mrs. William Tisdale; treasurer, Mrs. Boardman Hall; secretary, Mrs. A. J. Strahan; executive committee, Mrs. Jesse Bonne, Mrs. J. Feeley, Mrs. William Best and Mrs. William Hickborn.

I understand that the pretty Luke cottage at Beverly Farms, known as "The Meadows," has been taken for the season by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Taller, of New York. Capt. Taller is a frequent visitor at their home at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, but they are to come this year and be with the North Shore people for the Summer.

* * *

Miss Hope W. Neary, who is the director of the Durant Gymnasium, sailed Saturday from New York on the Kaiser for Europe, where she is to spend the Summer in studying gymnasium methods on the Continent.

* * *

The second of the "Pop" concerts of the current week, which takes place this evening at Symphony Hall, will be attended by many members of the graduates of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. To-day the senior class has its annual reception and to-day the earlier classes are to enjoy numerous dinners at the various hotels, after which they will adjourn to the "Pop" concert where Professor Henry W. Pritchett, of the Institute, is among those who will occupy a table with a party of the faculty and friends.

The Hotel Brunswick is to have the classes of 1903 to 1877 at a spread this afternoon while at the same time the classes of '78, '79, '80, '81, '82, '83, '84, '85 and '87 are to spread elsewhere.

The class of '86 is to have a luncheon at the Hotel Vendome, the class of '88 at the Oakley Country Club is to be the scene of the luncheon of the class of '89. The class of '91 is to lunch at the Oakley Country Club in Watertown and the various luncheons this noon at the Hotel Brunswick, include the class of '90, '92, '93, '94, '95 and a dinner of the class of '99 at 6 o'clock.

At the conclusion of the "Pop" concert, where Mr. Adamowski has chosen a number of the "Tech" Glee Club songs for his programme, the members of the various classes are to assemble in front of Rogers Building, which will be illuminated with red fire.

THE CHAPERON

GOSSIPS OF SOCIETY

BOSTON SOON TO HAVE ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY TO ENTERTAIN MISS ROOSEVELT.

By the Chaperon.

BOSTON is to have another chance to entertain Miss Alice Roosevelt, for I understand that she is coming to make Boston her annual visit on June 19th or 20th. She will, as usual, be the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Lee, at Cheshire Hill, and she has gone that visit call for her arrival at Harvard commencement and also at the Country Club races. Miss Roosevelt is quite a favorite with the set, and from her latest fad in this line is automobile racing, and I hear that she has become quite an experienced auto driver.

Her visit comes immediately after the wedding of her cousin, Miss Helen Roosevelt, at which she is to be bridesmaid on June 14, she will act in a like capacity to Miss Elsie Whelan.

I have not heard just how Mrs. Lee will entertain her distinguished niece, but she always gives some charming affair for her when she is here, and we can count on something or other that will serve to introduce us to Miss Roosevelt and entertain her as well.

* * *

Dr. Blanche A. Ames, of the Hotel Bristol, has sailed away to Germany for additional study. She left Saturday from New York on the Hamburg-American liner Pretoria, and will spend the whole Summer abroad. In the Fall she is to visit the principal cities of Europe and is to return about the first of November.

Have YOU Any Real Feeling About the Trusts?

If So, What Are You Going to Do When Voting Time Comes?

We are all agreed, of course, that the great national issue is THE TRUSTS.

We have all been agreed on that point for several years—and during that time the trusts have steadily gained in power.

We have elected their men to office, we have permitted our Legislatures to pass the laws they wanted, we have seen our highest officials sign these laws.

We SAY to each other that the trust is the great issue and must be put down.

But what do we DO about it, and what are we GOING to do about it.

YOU, the reader, know in how many ways the trusts have hurt the country and the general prosperity.

They have stolen millions and hundreds of millions with their bogus stock schemes—for they are no longer content to steal slowly and methodically through higher prices.

Not one of you is in doubt as to the character of the Steel Trust promoters, or the Ship Trust promoters. You know perfectly well when J. Pierpont Morgan—drunk with money—pays an idiotic price for an idiotic antiquity where the price comes from.

But Morgan is buying antiquities, and YOU are economizing to make up for what you lost in Steel, and the steel workers are getting lower wages because the trust must pay dividends on preferred stock—every share of it a certificate of knavery, every share water, pure and simple, fraudulent, disgraceful.

You know that within the last two years TRUSTS HAVE DIMINISHED PROSPERITY.

You know that the prices of your necessities are higher, that while the prices you PAY increase, the sums PAID to you do not increase.

But what are you going to DO about it? In what way do you mean to express and resent your knowledge of the fact that the wealth which should be divided among the people that produce it is absorbed through monopoly, through railroad and trust conspiracy, by a few gigantic criminals?

"The criminal trusts—THERE IS THE GREAT ISSUE."

Such is the burden of our national song. We say it, we know it, we write it in editorials, we spout it on the stump, we have a brand new lot of magazine writers to prove it—male and female we have created them, and they Steffenize or Tarbellize about our trust pirates, and meanwhile those pirates prosper and develop and have their way.

We are like so many frogs in a pond, convinced that the big Muscovy duck on the bank must and shall be suppressed. The duck says little, but dives in and grabs a meal when he pleases. He grows fatter, and we, the frogs, grow thinner all the time.

We all TALK about the trusts, and we are as impotent as the poor devils in China. There the national curse is opium and every man knows it. Every man denounces it and says that only abolition of the opium curse can save China—saying which each man goes off and smokes his opium allowance.

We talk, AND THE TRUSTS ACT.

BUT THE TRUSTS, GRIMLY HUMOROUS, ARE ARRANGING TO GIVE A TRUST CANDIDATE TO THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY THAT TALKS SO MUCH AGAINST TRUSTS.

And according to present political plans, that great nation will have in the field next Fall two Presidential candidates—one a Republican, with nine-tenths of his body and soul owned by the trusts, the other a Democrat, the trusts owning ten-tenths of HIM.

The trust question IS a great question.

But while the people cast their votes through their pockets, while the dollar that they hold thinks for them, while they fear a POSSIBLE financial flurry more than CERTAIN trust domination, while the trusts control the money, the money controls the politicians, and the politicians control the nominations—there is no great immediate prospect of the overthrow of trust government.

Criticism Is Easy—Generosity Is Unusual.

Please Let Carnegie's Charities Alone. Messrs. Critics—or at Least Try to Do as Well in Proportion to Your Means.

Professor Goldwin Smith, a very valuable member of the human race, objects to Andrew Carnegie's ideas of charity. He modestly disclaims any desire to criticise Carnegie, but admits that he thinks it would be better, instead of giving libraries, to devote the money "to the improvement of the low quarters in our great cities, which cannot fail to be seed plots for disease as well as of barbarism and misery."

Andrew Carnegie has known what it means to live in a very poor house. And he has known what it means, also, to be deprived of good books and the chance to study them.

In his old age, with hundreds of millions accumulated, thanks to a foolish tariff, a foolish people, and his own energies, he decides that the books which he missed in his youth are more important than the fine house that his childhood never knew.

Perhaps Andrew Carnegie knows what he is doing. Perhaps he is right. It is easy to criticise the good that is done by libraries. To tear down rookeries and build model tenements is an important work.

One man, one fine mind, can do a great deal to improve the dwellings of the poor.

AN EDUCATED PEOPLE CAN DO EVERYTHING TO IMPROVE THE DWELLINGS OF THE POOR. BY THEIR WILL, THEIR VOTES, THEIR PROPER SPENDING OF TAXES, THE PASSING OF PROPER TENEMENT HOUSE LAWS, THEY CAN WIPE OUT ALL THE LOW QUARTERS.

It is reasonable to suppose that to Mr. Carnegie's libraries the world will owe within a short time at least a thousand earnest, able, thinking men. Millions will use the libraries. To assume that in each generation one thousand really able minds will be developed by them is a very moderate estimate.

If Mr. Carnegie's libraries should contribute a thousand thinking readers to the human race during each generation he will have done more for humanity than if he had spent his three hundred millions for model tenements.

And if people as a rule will visit the libraries, study the good books, learn to think on their own account, they will be able to wipe out the disease-breeding spots in the cities by the imposition and the proper spending of taxes. They will be able to do that tenement house work without Carnegie's help.

It is important that the bodies of men should have comfortable dwellings. But the brain is more important than the body. If Carnegie succeeds in feeding and improving a million brains he will do a greater work than if he were to house comfortably ten millions of bodies.

OUR AMERICAN PEERAGE.

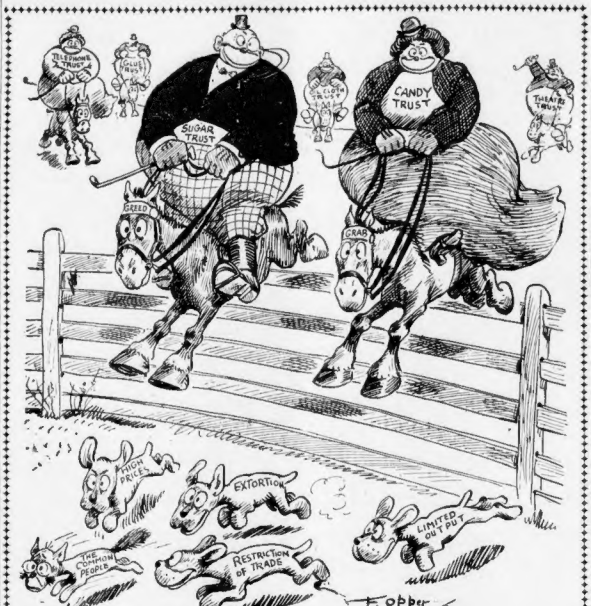
COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY AMERICAN-JOURNAL-EXAMINER.



"Chawming sport, dontcherknow, fox hunting," remarked the Marquis of Lumps to his beautiful companion, the Duchess of Caramels, as they gracefully took a five-barred fence, followed by the rest of the Monopoly Hunt Club. It was a magnificent and charmante spectacle. All the elite were there, including the Earl of Kitchenfloor, the Baroness Hellocentral, Viscount Stickright and Lord Boxoffice. Everybody was in a state of joyous embonpoint except the fox. He was Ausgespielt.

NOTHING TO FEAR.

"Don't be 'fraid, mister, I won't let Togo bite you."

ONE CONSOLATION.

THE SPARROW—There's one comfort about being a bird.
THE SWALLOW—What's that?
THE SPARROW—You never get nervous prostration trying to invent an airship.

GAMBLE OF LOVE.

"Will yer please wait a minute, Mamie?"
"Wot fer?"
"Me an' Henry's tossin' a penny ter see witch proposes ter yer."

A SCHEMER.

HE (aside)—Gee! I hope she don't make up wit' me till I gits dis candy et!

BURNING QUESTION.

HE—I shall smoke as long as I live.
SHE—And then?

HIS VIEW.

"Wot's a 'cap'n of industry'?"
"Why, as well as I kin make out it's a feller wot lays back and has about a t'ousand men a wolkin' fer him!"

The Stenographer

She Discourses on the Hen-Pecked Husband.

"D'ye read in the paper," asked the Stenographer, "about that Detroit Judge who hammered the man who came howling into court, complaining that his big, cruel wife beat him, so she did? The law ladler didn't dope out any sympathy. Instead, he told the domestic martyr to buck up and go home, and hand the madam a few on his own account—that a man ought to be the head of his own house."

"That Judge makes a hit with me," responded the Bookkeeper; "if there is anything that gets on my nerves it's the sight of an old hen ruling the roost."

"Right you are," agreed the Stenographer; "a hen-pecked man that has to pull off his shoes and sneak up the back stairs if he gets home after ten o'clock at night and who has to understudy Anatias to get away from wife long enough to go to a ball game, is an object that calls for weeps as much as the door-mat wife who is always trampled upon, and who has to pinch the butcher bill to get enough money for a matinee ticket. I like that Judge to the post, but I wish that while he was framing up the theory about a man being the head of the house he had parted with a few tips on how to do it. I've a bunch of men friends that are in need of about a barrel of information on this subject."

An object that calls for weeps.

"Any man that can't be the first finger in his house is a pretty poor skate," sneered the Bookkeeper; "it's easy enough to manage a woman."

"Your middle name is Solomon, all right," replied the Stenographer, "but I have seen about a couple of thousand other wise guys fall down on the proposition. A man sees a nice, sweet, innocent, mild little girl that looks like butter wouldn't melt in her mouth, and that you would no more think of her having a tabasco temper concealed about her angelic disposition than you would of toting around a can of dynamite in her straight front. He marries her, and one of the first joyous surprises of the honeymoon is that she pre-empts the family trousers and proposes to wear 'em. What's he going to do about it?"

"Maybe so," assented the Stenographer, "but how would you do it? A gentleman can't beat his wife, no matter how much she needs it. He can't argue with her, for when it comes to a chirpfest the woman outclasses him. In a rave a man lacks speed and staying power, besides no man who goes home tired at night is in a condition to scrap with a woman who has been getting up steam all day for a domestic mix-up, and he doesn't show the yellow if he ducks and runs."

"Sure thing," replied the Stenographer, "but the man who invents some way to muzzle a woman with a double-action tongue and the curtain-lecture habit, or devises some certain method of shutting off the water works of the dame who is always doing the sobby part, and putting up a bleat because she hasn't got automobiles and diamonds, has got Edison beat to a finish. There ought to be some way of making these women behave, same as there ought to be some way that a man could keep an extravagant wife from running him into debt; but the trouble is no man up to date has been Sherlock Holmes enough to turn the trick."

"I'd like to see the woman that could boss me," said the Bookkeeper.

"Wait until you are married, and you will see her every day," replied the Stenographer, soothingly.

She has the curtain-lecture habit.

"Say," broke in the Office Boy, "one day I seen the Boss's wife when she came down here, and he got busy all of a sudden like we does when he comes along, and he looked so scared I taut he was going to throw a fit."

"That," remarked the Stenographer, "is where we get even."

How Ancient Is Man!

BY FELIX ADLER.

Kipling, in one of his stories, speaks of the long white road that passes all the way through India, and of the many travellers of various degree that go in pilgrimage thereon. He describes it in his vivid and picturesque fashion, bringing it clearly before the mind of the reader.

But who can describe that long road that passes from the remote regions of the past, and stretches on into the present, and who can bring before us the many tribes and nations and races that have travelled thereon?

Let us for a moment allow the life of our species to beat in our breasts; let us forget that we are individuals, and let us pay the tribute of grateful remembrance to the long line of predecessors who have made us what we are.

How ancient is man!

How many ages have elapsed, prehistoric ages, ages before history began since there appeared on this earth the forefathers of our race.

How long and misty are those ages, how filled with an obscurity which science will never lift!

How poor and rude and brutish were our beginnings, against adverse climate, against hostile monsters, against beasts, that threatened the life of our feeble species, and against the viler monsters that threatened the light of reason and humanity in the breasts of our half-savage ancestors!

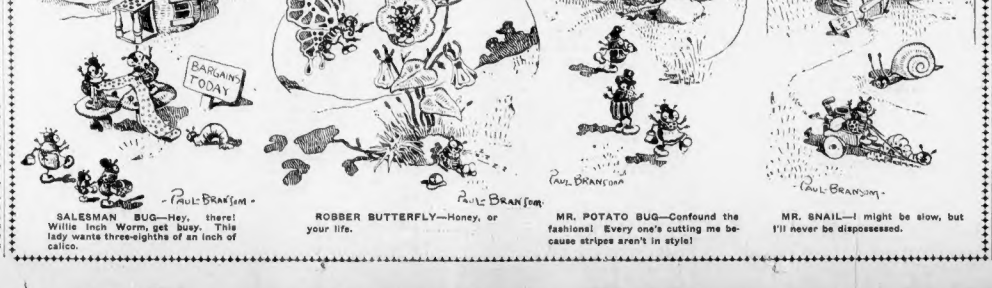
How slow was the gradual development of letters and arts!

How often was the forward way met and submerged by the reflux of a backward movement!

How many civilizations have perished of which we know not even the name, of which only recently, through the excavations of explorers in Yucatan, in far-off Babylon, in the mountain fastnesses of India, we have acquired dim and uncertain knowledge!

How slowly, like some coral island in mid-ocean, has this modern civilization of ours built itself up, surrounded as it still is, by a sea of barbarism.

IN BUGVILLE.



SALESMAN BUG—Hey, there! Willie Inch Worm, get busy. This lady wants three-eighths of an inch of calico.

ROBBER BUTTERFLY—Honey, or your life.

MR. POTATO BUG—Confound the fashions! Every one's cutting me because stripes aren't in style!

MR. SNAIL—I might be slow, but I'll never be dispossessed.

PLEA FOR COMMONWEALTH PARK.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I would like to call the attention of your valuable paper to the condition of the Commonwealth Park playground, South Boston, at the present time. No section of the city affords better facilities for an up-to-date playground than at Commonwealth Park. This park at present is covered with large bricks and cinders, which not only take away the pleasure of any sport, but are absolutely dangerous to the players. Especially is this true of members of baseball teams in this Ward (Ward 13), who have no other place to play ball but at this park, and organized teams in the Ward have to leave their home grounds and play in other sections of the city. If they want to play a game of ball, because no team from any other section of the city will come to this park to play, knowing the condition in which the grounds are.

This not only is a source of trouble to the players, but it deules to the voters and citizens of this Ward the pleasure of enjoying a game of ball on a Saturday, which is generally a half holiday during the Summer. There is never even a rope stretched, with the proper police protection, to keep the spectators from crowding on to the field. At Wood Island Park, East Boston, and other sections of the city, there is always a policeman on hand to keep the crowd outside the ropes. No section of the city is better represented in the City Government than is South Boston, and it is about time the politicians elected by the voters of Ward 13 should be doing something to repay the voters for their support. Is it because Ward 13 is the strongest Democratic Ward in the city that nothing is being done for it?
